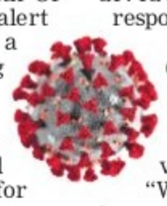
Centre says no room for complacency as WHO flags early signs of third wave

Govt red-flags Covid spike, next 100 days crucial

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

CITING the rising Covid-19 caseload in various parts of the world as well as a few states in India, the Centre on Friday raised a red flag saying the situation could get worse from here, adding the next 100 days are going to be crucial.

With the World Health Organization issuing an alert on the early signs of a third Covid wave, saying global cases and deaths increased by 10% and 3%, respectively, last week, the Centre said there was no room for complacency.



Dr V K Paul, who heads the national Covid task force, said the world moving towards the third wave should be seen as a red flag. Prime Minister Narendra Modi held a meeting with chief ministers of six states — Kerala, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Odisha and Karnataka — where cases are either rising or have plateaued at a high number.

"PM has given us the target to stall the third wave and it is possible," Paul said, adding that while the situation is under control now, it may change for the worse if public health measures are not taken and individuals do not behave responsibly.

While Spain has seen a 64% hike in weekly cases, Netherlands has recorded a 300% spike.

Highlighting India's vulnerability, Paul said, "We have not reached herd immunity — not even through infection. Not that we want to achieve herd immunity through natural infection. We are making continuous progress in vaccination," he said. He, however, said at least 50% of the most vulnerable section is now vaccinated.

CM SEEKS 1.5 CR VAX DOSES A MONTH FOR K'TAKA

Bengaluru: Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa on Friday sought 1.5 crore Covid vaccine doses per month for Karnataka from the Union government. In a video conference with Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Yediyurappa said the state has administered 2.62 crore doses of the vaccines so far and it needs five lakh doses per day. "The Centre should increase vaccine quota for the State to contain the pandemic. It is also requested that 800 neonatal and paediatric ventilators be sanctioned under PM-CARES funds," the CM said. SC gives UP last chance to call off its Kanwar Yatra

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

GIVING the Uttar Pradesh government one last chance to reconsider its decision to allow the Kanwar Yatra amid the pandemic, the Supreme Court on Friday emphasised that the right to life is paramount while all other sentiments, including religious, are subservient to it.

Hearing a suo motu case, a bench of justices R F Nariman and Ajay Rastogi said no physical congregation can be allowed and gave the Yogi Adityanath government time till Monday to take its final call.

"UP cannot go ahead with physical yatra. Either we will pass orders directly, or will give you one more opportunity to reconsider your decision," the court told senior advocate C S Vaidynathan, who appeared for the UP government. The yatra had been cancelled last year, too, amid the first wave.

During the hearing, Vaidyanathan spelt out the raft of safety measures taken by the UP government to hold the yatra. While kanwariyas have been generally advised to skip it, those determined to perform the yatra need to apply for registration, have to be fully vaccinated and also produce a negative RT-PCR report, which is not more than three days old, he told the bench.

"The yatra would be symbolic," he said, and sought to invoke the right to religion. UP plans to station Ganga water tankers at key locations from where kanwariyas can collect it and perform abhishekam at a nearby Shiv temple.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said the Centre was against the yatra to Haridwar. Taking note of both the stands, the bench said it "goes at the very heart of Article 21... The rest of the citizenry of India and their right to life are paramount. All other sentiments, including religious, are subservient to this most basic fundamental right."

CM meets PM, shrugs off talk on leadership change

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister BS Yediyurappa met Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday evening following a flutter of political activity in the recent past in the State. Speaking to the media after the meeting, Yediyurappa said various issues that are in Karnataka's interests were discussed with the Prime Minister and his response had been favourable. Yediyurappa's meeting assumes significance given the recent murmurs of leadership change, public sparring in the party's state unit and demand for action against indiscipline. The meeting is expected to put an end to speculation and dissidence within the party.

"Various issues were discussed with the Prime Minister and he has assured us of full support. I will elaborate on it later," Yediyurappa said when asked about the specifics of the meeting. "I don't know. You should tell me," shrugged the chief minister when asked about murmurs of leadership change in the State. During the 25-minute meeting, Yediyurappa was accompanied by senior officer Girish Hosur, Secretary to the Chief Minister. The Prime Minister's Office released photos of the meeting where both leaders are all smiles, prompting Yediyurappa's loyalists to claim that the meeting ended on a favourable note for the Chief Minister.

"During the meeting, the CM requested to declare Upper Bhadra Project as national project and also sought financial assistance of Rs 6000 crore for Bengaluru Peripheral Ring Road project. Mekedatu project and establishing US Consulate were also discussed," said a statement from the Chief Minister's Office later on Friday.

Soon after the meeting with Modi, Yediyurappa met newly appointed ministers from Karnataka. He was accompanied by his son and BJP Karnataka vice-president BY Vijayendra during his trip to the national capital.

A week after the Cabinet reshuffle at the Centre in which a few senior ministers were shown the door, Karnataka chief minister BS Yediyurappa on Friday called on Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while he's likely to call on Union Minister for Home Affairs Amit Shah and BJP president JP Nadda.

The CM met the Prime Minister after a long gap, and also in the wake of the inclusion of his loyalist Shobha Karandlaje in the Union council of ministers. P4

Electronic bail orders to get prisoners out of jails without delay

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

TAKING a serious note of the delay in releasing of prisoners from jails despite bail being granted, the Supreme Court on Friday said it will set up a system to ensure that bail orders are sent electronically to jail authorities.

"In this age of information and communication technology, we are still looking at the skies for pigeons to communicate orders," Chief Justice N V Ramana said. "Prisoners are waiting for Supreme Court orders to be sent by post. We had ordered release in some matters and they were not released since they did not receive authentic copy of orders. This is too much," he added.

The bench of CJI Ramana and justices L Nageswara Rao and A S Bopanna made the observation while hearing the suo-motu case regarding delay in releasing convicts by prison authorities even after bails were granted by courts.

Explaining the changes being planned, the CJI said, "We are contemplating a system to ask and secure orders of bail so that such orders are sent electronically to jail authorities. We are directing Supreme Court Secretary General to frame the scheme and submit before us."

"The idea of this order is to send the order copies of this court via a secured route. This will be taking care of security," Justice Rao added.

The court has also directed all states to answer whether their jails have proper internet facility, which is a crucial requirement to access the secure system for transmission of orders being put in place.

'Those on bail/parole need not surrender'

The SC directed prisoners granted bail or parole as a measure to decongest jails need not surrender till further orders as the Covid threat persists. The bench also ordered states to inform within a week on the criteria adopted by high-powered panels to release prisoners

Recently, the SC had granted interim bail to 13 convicts lodged in Agra Central Jail. The order was passed on July 8 but the convicts could walk out of jail only after four days, since the prison authorities stated they did not receive the certified copy of the order by post.

RTI activist killed, another attacked in Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hosapete, Bengaluru

KARNATAKA witnessed two separate attacks on RTI activists on Thursday, leaving one dead and the other severely injured.

At Harapanahalli town in Vijayanagara district, a gang of assailants attacked T Shridhar, 40, with iron rods and bricks on Thursday night. He was rushed to a hospital, where he died later.

His sister Saraswati M alleged, "He was receiving threat calls from followers of an MLA. My brother had sought a clarification on the birth certificate submitted by the MLA's son during the recent gram panchayat elections. He was constantly being pestered to drop the RTI query. He had told the family about the threats. On Thursday night, he went out to have tea and he was attacked."

Asked about the involvement of the politician's son, Ballari Superintendent of Police Saidulu Adavath said all angles are being probed. Three teams have been formed to trace the assailants, he added.

In Bengaluru, another RTI activist Venkatesh S alias 'Maamaiah' (43), a resident of Tavarekere, was attacked, leaving his right arm and right leg severed. The attack occurred just outside the gates of his farm in Tavarakere on Magadi Road.

While the police said that they are probing the angle of cheque bounce and cheating cases against Venkatesh, his brother Govindraju S claimed that the assault was due to the activist's fight against corruption. P5

EMBEDDED INDIAN JOURNALIST KILLED IN AFGHAN CROSSFIRE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

REUTERS journalist Danish Siddiqui, 38, was killed on Friday in Kandahar province's Spin Boldak near a border crossing with Pakistan. Since early this week, Siddiqui had been embedded as a journalist with the Afghan special forces based in Kandahar. The forces were fighting to regain control over Spin Boldak when Siddiqui was killed, Reuters reported.

For its part, the Taliban claimed it did not know a journalist was accompanying the soldiers. It has reportedly handed over the body to the Red Cross. "Our Ambassador in Kabul is in touch with Afghan authorities. We are keeping his family informed of the developments," MEA spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said.

A native of Delhi, Siddiqui is survived by wife Rike and two young children. After graduating in Economics from Jamia Millia Islamia, Delhi, Siddiqui pursued a degree in Mass Communication. Though he started his journalism career as a reporter, Siddiqui later decided go behind the camera. He went on to produce world-class work that spanned the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq, the Rohingya refugee crisis, which won him a Pulitzer, Delhi riots and India's Covid crisis. P9

SBI-led team gets ₹792 cr selling Kingfisher shares

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

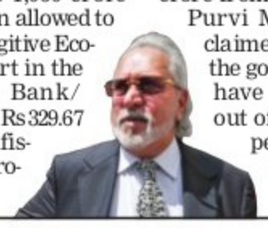
THE State Bank of India-led consortium has recovered another Rs 792.11 crore through the sale of shares in Kingfisher Airlines in the Vijay Mallya case, the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) stated in an official release on Friday.

According to the Central Revenue Intelligence and Enforcement Agency, these shares, which were earlier attached by ED under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act(PMLA), were handed over to the consortium. The consortium had earlier realised Rs 7,181.50 crore by liquidating assets handed over to them by ED.

"In addition, Rs 1,060 crore worth asset has been allowed to the banks by the Fugitive Economic Offence Court in the Punjab National Bank/ Nirav Modi case and Rs 329.67 crore has been confiscated by ED under provisions of Fugitive Economic Offences Act," the agency stated.

Till date, ED has transferred assets worth Rs 12,762.25 crore to public sector banks and confiscated assets of Rs 329.67 crore. ED had also recovered Rs 17.25 crore from Nirav Modi's sister, Purvi Modi. With this, ED claimed that the banks and the government exchequer have realised 58 per cent out of the total fraud perpetrated in two of the country's biggest criminal bank loan heist cases till date. A few days ago, ED further handed over assets worth Rs 3728.64 crore to the SBI-led consortium, which included shares of Rs. 3644.74 crore, demand draft of Rs 54.33 crore and immovable properties worth Rs 29.57 crore.

Mallya, Nirav Modi and Mehul Choksi have defrauded public sector banks by siphoning off funds through their companies which resulted in total loss of Rs 22,585.83 crore to the banks.



PU II results will be out on July 20

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA @Bengaluru

THE second PUC results are scheduled to be announced on July 20. But since students do not have admit card numbers to check their results, registration numbers have been generated which could be accessed by students for three days, starting Saturday, a top official told The New Indian Express.

Students have to visit the department website, click on the link and enter their college details to take them to individual results. They also have to put in their and their parents' names, the district they are studying in and the registration number, the official said.

The department put out a circular on Friday that freshers and repeaters who had registered for the second PUC examination can access the registration number through the link https://dpue-exam.karnataka.gov.in/iipu2021_registration-number/regnumber.

AN SSLC student from Moodbidri, who did not receive her hall ticket, will be given the option to write the exam in August, when supplementary exams are held," Primary and Secondary Education Minister Suresh Kumar told TNIE on Friday. "That will be considered as her first attempt," he added.

The minister had spoken to the student on Thursday evening and TNIE had reported the incident.

"She did not receive her admit card," Kumar said, adding that her examination fee wasn't paid and her picture also wasn't sent to the school. "A student's photograph is important as it is also printed on the OMR sheet," he said. In a similar incident, a student in Bagalkot had also failed to submit his photograph to the school.

"The OMR sheets are already in the taluk treasury and one cannot print additional sheets at this time. As many as 98 per cent of the students have already downloaded the hall tickets," the minister said.

Meanwhile, a top official told TNIE that the department is still discussing the modalities of the examination in August, even as all students writing the SSLC examination in July are considered passed. Even the dates for the examination are yet to be finalised.

"All the preparations for the examination in July were completed three months ago and 15 days were given additionally, to complete any remaining process. It is difficult to complete the entire process in such a short span," the official said.

The thought in the department is to hold the examination in the OMR style and to even pass the students, as per the minister.

Poor turnout for SSLC mock test

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

VERY few students have turned up for the SSLC mock test so far, sources from the education department said on Friday.

An official told TNIE that while the department had set July 14 and 17 as the dates, schools were given the liberty to hold mock exams anywhere around these, as the model question paper and practice OMR sheets were already up on the website. However, despite the flexibility, very few students turned up.

The official said the process was not mandatory for schools. "Those from remote areas and with lesser connectivity (gadget-wise), were the beneficiaries of this mock drill."

Meanwhile, President of Karnataka State High School Teachers Association, Manjunath H K told TNIE that so far the attendance would be as less as 30 per cent in the state. Manjunath said, in some taluks, just one or two schools held the mock examination. "They were held at school level as per the schedule suggested by the board. Others had given their students an option to come and visit the examination centre on Thursday and this can go on till Saturday, he said.

Radio show on SSLC

Primary and Secondary Education Minister Suresh Kumar will participate in Akashavani radio show at 7:15 across the state in 13 centres, in a programme on SSLC examinations. He will also some schools on July 17 to check the preparations for SSLC examinations.

Damage to rail bridge delays trains by over three hours

S LALITHA @BENGALURU

DAMAGED walls of an old stone bridge near Krishnarajapuram railway station delayed trains by two to three hours in the Bengaluru railway Division on Friday evening. Trains running between Bengaluru and Chennai on the route were affected, inconveniencing passengers.

Chief Public Relations Officer, SWR, Aneesh Hegde, told The New Indian Express, "Around 6 pm, it was observed that walls of an old small, masonry bridge on which the track is laid was damaged, and the stones were falling out. As a precaution, the trains are being run on the other line through manual mode operations."

The restoration work is on and the track will be made fit for operation within four hours, he added.

KSR Bengaluru- Marikuppam MEMU Special train was held up for hours in Bengaluru on Friday

The KSR Bengaluru-Jolarpettai (Train no. 06555) suffered a major delay. Among other trains behind schedule were KSR Bengaluru-Marikuppam MEMU Special (Train no. 06263), which had nearly 1,000 passengers.

Prasanna Kumar, a public sector employee who was sitting in a train, said, "Every day, I board the train at 6.10 pm at KSR and reach Bangarpet by 7.50 pm. But on Friday, something was wrongright from the start. It stopped at Cantonment for 20 minutes, then at Baiyappanahalli for 90 minutes and stopped at K R Puram now. I think I will reach my station only by 10 pm."

Building contractor Venugopal, his co-traveller, said, "Normally I reach my house by 9 pm. Daily, I travel from Bengaluru to Tekal for work. The train has been held up at K R Puram and it is already 8.30 pm."

Homemaker Shanti said, "I boarded the train at Bengaluru East at 6.30 pm. It is already 9.20 pm. I really do not know when I will reach my house at KGF tonight."

Now, you need a coupon to enter Nandi Hills

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

NANDI Hills is now out of bounds for visitors during the weekends. That is not all, those keen on visiting, will have to get a coupon at the parking lot, even during weekdays. Learning from past experiences, when there was unregulated rush at the hill station and Covid norms were violated, the Chikkaballapur district administration has decided to go for these measures.

Also, even as bookings for guest houses and hotels on Nandi Hills will now be made online, visitors will have to register online even just to enter the hilltop.

Chikkaballapur DC, R Latha told TNIE that a software was being worked on with Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation, where 50 per cent of the coupons will be given online and the remaining at the parking lot. The software will be launched soon. She said, "Currently, people coming to park their vehicles will be given coupons at the parking lot. We do not want vehicles wandering around and we also don't want to restrict the crowd on the hilltop." Coupons will not apply to those staying in the guest houses and hotels. They will have to show the tickets while entering.

The administration is also conducting a study at Nandi Hills to ascertain the carrying capacity and ensure that the crowd is controlled.

17th July: Time is a funny thing. We experience one moment after the next in a logical sequence, but most cultures have a theory that all times, past, present and future, exist simultaneously, and we only think they are separate because we don't truly understand the real nature of the universe!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Planetary patterns concerning those with major domestic decisions to take, or in the property market, couldn't be better and there's every reason to believe that your dreams will harmonise with financial and practical realities in a most fortuitous way. How pleasant it is to look forward to good fortune.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
On a mundane level, travel, excursions, meetings with friends and social gatherings are all well aspected, yet underlying routine happenings, is the message that you must trust other people more than in the past. Children could be a handful, but you may have to grin and bear it for now!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
An imaginative interest holds out the possibility of financial rewards. There's even a chance of a windfall through work that you had come to think of as a dead end. Your best time today should be later on, as the Moon reaches the end of its daily pattern.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There's nothing like the present for snatching some time off between pressing engagements and trying responsibilities. Make the most of pleasurable planetary pictures, especially as other, more stressful pressures, seem to be coming to a final and fruitful end.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You're not renowned for your skill in keeping secrets. Yet, if a friend has not just entrusted you with some confidential information, they soon will. Respect confidences and be discreet where necessary. After all, you would expect partners to keep your secrets.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Venus is making a supportive aspect to Mercury, your planetary ruler, and you should be feeling perfectly happy with your lot. The only snag is that there will be a number of practical tasks to complete before you can put your feet up. However, the rest, when it comes, will be worth the wait!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It may be the weekend but according to your horoscope it's professional status, work, prestige and earnings that are occupying your attention today. The prospect of an increase in your income is high, but it's not a question of luck; you've worked for every penny.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
An enjoyable and deeply creative relationship between Mercury and Venus brings imagination, sensitivity, flair and romantic experiences to the fore, so give mundane chores a rest and indulge your ambitions. Enjoying yourself is not a sin, at least, not this week!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon forms an intriguing relationship with Venus, a configura-tion which offers great hopes for all social engagements and emotional attachments as long as you take pains with all practical and apparently trivial details. Profitable news is likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There's little risk of unexpected guests and every chance that the weekend will go as planned. This is an excellent day for quiet get-togethers and civilised outings with close friends and favourite relations. If your hopes are unrealistically high on the other hand, they are unlikely to be met.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
On the whole, the pressures which have been giving you personal and professional troubles have eased, although you're not out of the woods yet. Press ahead with improvements you know can be beneficial in the long run, and don't waste your time on irritating sidelines.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Whatever the circumstances of your life, the planets continue to hold a formation that is so helpful that you really should use the day constructively to bring current projects to a successful close and launch exciting new schemes. It's time to rebuild the foundations of your life.

HC sure Centre will consider request for vax supply

Bengaluru: The High Court on Friday said it was confident the Centre will consider the request made by the state for additional supply of 30 lakh vaccine doses per week, considering the shortage faced to administer vaccine to beneficiaries due for second dose in July and August. The number of beneficiaries who will be due for second dose of Covishield is 37,13,805 in July, and 23,74,156 in August. The number of vaccines to be received for government centres is 34,36,750, till August 4. The number of beneficiaries who will be due in July and August for second dose of Covaxin is 9,38,099 and 4,51,153, respectively. The number of vaccines to be received for government centres is 7,65,470 till August 3. As on July 12, of the total 2.57 crore doses given in the state, 49% have been given in rural areas.ENS

Cocktail drug cures Covid in 2-3 days, but at steep cost

Priced at ₹1.19L, set of 2 monoclonal antibodies can treat 2 patients

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

MONOCLONAL antibodies, a single-shot drug cocktail given to former US President Donald Trump against Covid, is gaining popularity in Karnataka, as doctors and patients vouch for its effectiveness in preventing deaths. Manipal Hospitals in Bengaluru alone has administered this drug on more than 80 patients, and seen all of them recover.

However, researchers call for more such drugs so they become affordable. "I have myself administered this miracle drug on nearly 80 patients, and have seen all of them recover in 24-48 hours. It is unfortunate that this drug was not available during the peak of the second wave, or we would not have seen so many hospital admissions or deaths among those who could afford this treatment," said Dr Sathyanarayana Mysore, pulmonologist, Manipal Hospitals.

Last November, the US FDA issued emergency use authorisation to REGEN-COV, which contains two monoclonal antibodies — casirivimab and imdevimab — to be administered together for treating mild to moderate Covid patients. India granted emergency use authorisation in May. Therapy is directed against the spike of protein of SARS-CoV2.

"I have treated 4-5 patients. It reduces the chances of hospitalisation by 70% in patients with mild to moderate symptoms. The cocktail blocks the virus's attachment and subsequent entry into human cells," said Dr Sanjay Gururaj, consultant physician, Shanti Hospital and Research Centre.

A pack of REGEN-COV contains one vial of casirivimab (1200mg) and one vial of imdevimab (1200mg) and is priced at ₹1.19 lakh. One pack can be used for two patients, thus the cost per patient comes to ₹59,750. Some doctors have refrained from using this due to the cost. However, Dr Sathyanarayana says, "If the medicine is prescribed at the right time, the patient can be saved from the stage of needing oxygen and ICU bed, which cost more than what the medicine does."

Meanwhile, a few doctors don't want to administer this as it has been used only on an experimental basis. Dr Shashikiran Umapathy of Manipal, Udupi, says, "We stick to anticoagulants and medicines which we have used in the first wave, and seen good success rate, including Remdesivir."

At a recent webinar organised by Centre for Science and Environment, Chief Scientist, World Health Organisation, Soumya Swaminathan said while the world had moved fast on vaccines, not much was being done on the therapeutics front for Covid. "There are no antivirals, as such, and not many drugs that can be prescribed for patients in the early stage of Covid. All we have is a set of two drugs — corticosteroids and interleukin-6 blockers — for severe patients. Monoclonal antibodies may be given to patients before reaching the severe stage, but it is a costly cocktail of treatment," she said.

WHO CAN BE GIVEN THE DRUG, AND WHEN?

- Earlier the better, mostly on Day 5 of onset of symptoms. Has been given up to 10 days too
- Patient should be at risk of progressing to worse symptoms, onset of cytokine storm
- Aged above 65, in most cases. Technically, anyone above 14 can be given
- 'At risk' people — those with neurological illness, taking immunosuppressives, have coronary artery disease, renal issues, malignancy etc Oxygen level should not be at risk
- Can be even given as day care treatment
- Patient should come to hospital with RT-PCR positive report within 72 hours, for maximum benefit

WHAT ARE MONOCLONAL ANTIBODIES?

When our bodies are attacked by an infection caused by viruses or bacteria, they produce natural antibodies or proteins to fight back. These antibodies are crucial in our immune system's defence mechanism. Monoclonal antibodies are similar to natural antibodies, except they are laboratory-made. They are designed to target a specific disease and are often referred to as 'designer antibodies'.

High treatment cost sends black fungus patients home

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

ABDUL Jameel's mother Yasmeen (55) was admitted to a private hospital in Hebbal for treatment of mucormycosis, or black fungus, for one month and 25 days. Her left eye was swollen and she had lost her vision, and required surgery to remove the infected parts. The cost ran into ₹8 lakh.

"One injection of Amphotericin costs ₹7,448, and supplements cost ₹5,000. I couldn't afford to get her three injections a day, so managed with only two, and got her discharged. Now we need to readmit her, and are raising Rs 7 lakh," said Jameel, who lost his job at a private company. The cost of Yasmeen's treatment is ₹17,000 per day. His father, too, had contracted black fungus, which cost ₹ 2.5 lakh for a week. Jameel said the government must step in and provide the injection for free.

Similarly, Shah Rukh got his father Ahmed Shariff (52) discharged on Wednesday night from a private hospital in Madiwala, after shelling out ₹6.17 lakh for 25 days of treatment for Covid and black fungus. He bought three Amphotericin injections a day costing ₹22,400. He took a loan of ₹5 lakh, prior to which he had spent ₹2 lakh on his father's treatment in a private hospital in Tumakuru, before shifting him to Bengaluru.

Sabeel Nazir, trustee of Naasih Foundation, that sponsors 3-5 injections per patient, said Liposomal Amphotericin B costs around ₹7,000 while Amphotericin B Emlusion costs ₹4,800. He says that once the infection is under control, poor patients get discharged and visit the OPD to get an injection thrice a day for three weeks. This costs them ₹1,500-2,500 per day, while hospital stay costs ₹7,000-8,000 a day.

The state has not come up with plans to cover the cost of black fungus patients in private hospitals, as it did with Covid patients, through the Suvarna Arogya Suraksha Trust. Health Minister Sudhakar had announced a cap on black fungus treatment in private hospitals, but it was never implemented.

The Karnataka High Court on Friday said it was confident that the Union Government will consider the request made by the State Government for additional supply of 30 lakh vaccines per week, considering the shortage faced by Karnataka to administer doses of Covishield and Covaxin to beneficiaries who are due for their second dose in July and August

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa and his Cabinet colleagues take part in a video conference with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the prevailing Covid-19 situation, in Bengaluru on Friday

CM pitches for monthly supply of 1.5cr vax doses

During interaction with PM, he seeks 800 neo-natal, pediatric ventilators

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa, who interacted with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday, sought 1.5 crore vaccine doses per month for Karnataka. Yediyurappa was participating in a video conference with the PM on the Covid-19 situation along with chief ministers of Maharashtra, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Kerala and Tamil Nadu.

While Karnataka's grand plan was to vaccinate at least seven lakh people every day since the relaunch of the vaccination drive, the numbers have been seeing a downward trend due to shortage. Yediyurappa appealed to the Centre to provide enough vaccine doses to inoculate five lakh people daily. "Covid-19 cases in Karnataka have been on a downward trend. Bengaluru is reporting about 400 cases daily. The positivity rate is 1.43 per cent and the mortality rate is 1.25 per cent," Yediyurappa informed Modi after the latter said the six states, including Karnataka, were the highest contributors of new cases in the country.

> New RT-PCR and genome sequencing laboratories are being set up. The Centre should also increase vaccine quota for the state to contain the pandemic
> BS Yediyurappa, Chief Minister

Yediyurappa also said that the state has administered 2.62 crore doses of Covid-19 vaccines so far and it needs five lakh doses on a daily basis. Responding to Modi's advice to curb the spread of the virus at the micro-containment zone level, Yediyurappa said lockdown measures were implemented as per the advice of the Technical Advisory Committee and district authorities had been given a free hand to impose more restrictions as they deem fit to contain the spread.

Highlighting the state's preparations for the possible third wave, Yediyurappa said oxygenated beds, PICUs and ventilators are being increased in all health centres, apart from scaling up the number of healthcare personnel and laboratories. "New RT-PCR and genome sequencing laboratories are being set up. The Centre should also increase vaccine quota for the state to contain the pandemic. It is also requested that 800 neo-natal and pediatric ventilators be sanctioned from PM-CARES funds," Yediyurappa said. He also sought the Union Government's assistance in providing 40 PSA oxygen production units for taluk hospitals.

BSY ALL SMILES AFTER MEETING WITH MODI

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

IN a meeting that piqued a lot of interest in political circles, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa met Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday evening. While the Chief Minister's Office insisted that the 25-minute meeting was purely official, sources in the party from both sides — Yediyurappa's loyalists and his baiters — said there was more to it.

Party leaders believe that the meeting will put an end to all speculation over leadership change in the state although their takeaways were different.

"I hope the message is clear," tweeted M P Renukacharya, Political Secretary to the CM with a photograph of PM Modi and CM Yediyurappa beaming together. His tweet was a reflection of what Yediyurappa's loyalists had to say about the meeting. With this, the CM's supporters believe that the PM has sent a clear message to dissenters that he is firmly behind Yediyurappa. They hope that this meeting will put to rest all talk of leadership change. Yediyurappa was accompanied by MLC Lehar Singh for his Delhi visit. The senior leader, who has deep reach in the BJP central leadership, was in New Delhi earlier this week as well.

Those lobbying for Yediyurappa to be replaced view the meeting as well as his visit to Delhi as the final round of discussion to talk him into an amicable exit, if not immediately, at least sometime after he completes two years in office. Yediyurappa is hoping to meet BJP national president J P Nadda, when more discussions on the matter are expected. The CM is also hoping to get the central leadership's nod for a cabinet reshuffle. The possible reshuffle and how it turns out, perhaps holds the answer to what transpired during the CM's Delhi visit.

After his meeting with the Prime Minister, the newly-appointed Union ministers of state from Karnataka, Shobha Karandlaje, Rajeev Chandrashekhar, A Narayanaswamy and Bhagwanth Khuba, called on Yediyurappa at the Karnataka Bhavan.

"I will give you more details tomorrow," Yediyurappa told journalists when asked about what exactly was discussed with the Prime Minister. He is scheduled to return to Bengaluru on Saturday, but the outcome of his Delhi visit is likely to follow only much later.

> Various issues were discussed with the Prime Minister and he has assured us of full support. I will elaborate on it later

Shot in the arm for Yediyurappa

THIS is seen as a shot in arm for Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa in the backdrop of faction-ridden state unit of the Bharatiya Janata Party raising voices of dissent, besides fancying leadership change in Bengaluru.

Sources said that the meeting of the chief minister with Prime Minister Narendra Modi had been planned a couple of days ago.

The Prime Minister had earlier this year described the chief minister as "an experienced leader of the BJP".

While the chief minister, 78, is past the age ceiling within the BJP for occupying official positions, the party's state in-charge Arun Singh during his recent visit to the state had refuted speculation of leadership change.

Though not averse to the prospects of a leadership change on the age grounds, the BJP top brass continues to give the chief minister the benefit of exceptional situations in the absence of a visible successor.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa will also be meeting the BJP chief to discuss the political situation in the state. The chief minister is also likely to meet a few Union ministers during his stay in the national capital.

Crop insurance scheme: 3.7 lakh farmers from K'taka register

ENS @ Bengaluru

AS many as 3.71 lakh farmers in Karnataka have enrolled under the Prime Minister's Fasal Bima Yojana— a crop insurance scheme—this year, Agriculture Minister B C Patil said here on Friday. Speaking to reporters, Patil said 36 crops can be insured under the scheme and urged farmers to register for the scheme at the earliest. He said the 3.71 lakh farmer of the state have paid a total premium of Rs 3,504.06 lakh. Farmers can contact the nearest agriculture office to register for the scheme, he said.

Patil said that the state is not facing any shortage of fertilizers. "The government is supplying fertilizers and seeds, based on the demand. We are taking action against those who are creating an artificial shortage despite having adequate stock. Dealers and sellers will be monitored. This year, we are targeting to cultivate 77 lakh hectares of which sowing has been completed on 44.18 lakh hectares," he added.

Patil said that the state was successful in conducting a crop survey last year and a similar survey has been initiated this year too.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FREE access to photo and video journalists, a tradition maintained in the Vidhana Soudha over decades, has now been stalled citing discipline and security issues. Now, they will not be allowed to take photographs or record videos of ministers or officials in the corridors of the Vidhana Soudha.

Imposing restrictions on media inside the Vidhana Soudha, the State Government on Friday issued a circular banning shooting of videos or taking photographs of ministers or officials in the Soudha corridors.

The circular, issued on the Chief Minister's directive by the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR), says that during legislature sessions and on other occasions, media persons recording videos of ministers in the corridors block movement of VIPs and cause inconvenience to the public and the staff.

The circular says that a place at the Kengal Hanumanthaiah Entrance of Vidhana Soudha has been designated for the media. Media persons have been told to shoot videos or photos only this place and not any other places. This has been done to ensure discipline and safety. Personal Assistants of ministers have been directed to convene press conferences or other meetings inside ministers' offices or in the meeting rooms, failing which action will be taken, the circular reads.

In 2018, when H D Kumaraswamy was Chief Minister, restrictions had been imposed on media persons entering Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and the Multi-Storeyed Secretariat Building. However, it was revoked after the Opposition and media fraternity slammed the government. Later, in 2019, the BJP government restricted recording the proceedings of the Assembly session. Despite opposition, Assembly Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri took the stand of not allowing videographers and photographers.

DKS calls Cong meet to discuss BBMP polls

BENGALURU:Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president D K Shivakumar on Friday evening called for a mammoth party meeting at his residence, focusing on the upcoming BBMP elections. The party's elected representatives including Leader of the Opposition, Siddaramaiah, other MLAs, MLCs and MPs and former legislators were present. The other senior leaders who took part include former Union Minister Veerappa Moily, Tamil Nadu state in-charge general secretary Dinesh Gundu Rao, MP D K Suresh, Rajya Sabha MP G C Chandrashekar, KPCC working presidents Saleem Ahmed, Ramalinga Reddy and Eshwar Khandre, MLAs Akhanda Srinivas Murthy, Rizwan Arshad, Soumya Reddy, K J George and Byrati Suresh. Accoding to party insiders, Friday's meeting is the first in a series of meetings under the 'collective leadership' strategy of Shivakuamr ahead of the BBMP polls. ENS

Patil hopes to get Lingayats to rally behind Congress ahead of polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

RECALLING how the movement for a separate Lingayat religion was projected in bad light by several leaders prior to the last Assembly elections in the state, former minister and senior Congress leader M B Patil said the party will strive to take all Lingayats in the state into confidence and attempt to get them to rally behind it before the next Assembly polls.

While ruling out that it would become an election issue again, Patil, who was in the forefront of the movement, said, "The issue of separate religion for Lingayats was projected differently by some people when it was raised earlier. And we all know how the leaders played games at that time." Speaking to the media on Friday, he said the movement for a religion tag for Lingayats began in the 12th century and attempts were also made by several leaders in the late 1930s and early 40s in the country.

When asked if he was being projected as an alternative to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, Patil only said it is up to the people to decide who is their leader. "Yediyurappa always has been a tall leader among Lingayats. He also has a huge support of most Lingayat MLAs in North Karnataka," he said. "The Congress too has many able Lingayat leaders including Prakash Hukkeri, A B Patil, Eshwar Khandre, etc., who are equally popular in the state. We (Congress) stumbled somewhere, we are trying to regain the lost image," he said. On the tussle among party leaders over the next CM candidate, Patil said, "No one can declare themselves as CM candidate."

Congress MLA Laxmi Hebbalkar too said the party will work on getting all Lingayats in North Karnataka to support it in the coming days. To a question that Lingayats suffered injustice during the Congress' tenure, she defended saying, "The party took people of all sections into confidence and treated them equally while trying to respond to their problems," she said.

Shettar in Guj to study Spl Investment Region, DKS slams govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Industries Minister Jagdish Shettar on Friday met Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani and Industry Department officials in Gandhinagar to get details about the Special Investment Region (SIR) in that state.

After the meeting, Shettar said Dholera Special Investment Region (SIR), dream project of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, is the country's first systematic project to build a special investment zone. The Karnataka delegation led by Shettar, obtained information about the land acquisition process for industrial development in the state of Gujarat. The Karnataka government has announced the development of a special investment region in its industrial policy. The minister and the senior officers are in Gujarat to study its implementation in that state.

A statement issued by Shettar's office said they also discussed the policy changes made by the Gujarat government for industrial development. Shettar and senior officers from the Commerce and Industries Department also visited several industrial areas, including Dholera and Gujarat International Finance Tec-City.

Meanwhile, state Congress president D K Shivakumar has slammed the BJP government in Karnataka for hailing the Gujarat model of development. "Those in the government can go and learn any model they want, but they should ensure justice to our people. Why is Karnataka being discriminated against when it comes to vaccines? Karnataka and Gujarat are both BJP-ruled states, but we did not get even half of what was allocated to Gujarat," he alleged. "What Gujarat model? Is causing people to be without jobs the Gujarat model? The BJP government claims to be business-friendly, but didn't announce any tax rebates," he said. He also raised questions over the actual number of Covid deaths in the state.

POLLUTION WOES

Ouch! Doc removes 21 kg plastic from cow's stomach

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a grim reminder of pollution caused by non-degradable material, a veterinary doctor in Kadur taluk of Chikkamagaluru district removed 21 kg of plastic from a cow's stomach on Thursday. The cow had accumulated plastic in its rumen (first stomach of a ruminant) over a period of time. Mammals that chew the cud regurgitated from the rumen are known as Ruminants.

The animal, aged between 3 and 4 years, began to suffer bloating, weakness and lack of nutrition as its digesting capacity went down. In a 4-hour surgery, all the plastic was removed at the government veterinary hospital

"When a cow eats plastic, it can neither regurgitate it, nor pass it on to the next chamber of the digestive system. It gets tangled lifelong. The temperature in the rumen increases and the plastic melts inside, leaving no space for other food to digest. Therefore, the blood does not get the nutrients it needs," explained Dr B E Arun, Chief Veterinary Officer, Government Veterinary Hospital, Kadur.

The plastic waste removed from the cow's stomach

During the surgery, the cow was kept in standing position and was administered local anesthesia. The animal is fine now and will be followed up with antibiotics and painkillers for the next five days, the doctor said. Dr Arun has treated 10-15 such cases in the past year in Kadur itself.

In order to prevent it, people must not dispose food inside plastic covers and must reduce use of plastic overall, he urged. "Degradable covers are fine... but if there is food inside plastic, the animals can smell it and hence, they try to eat it. This issue affects wild animals too. It is a slow poison. In monogastric animals, that is, mammals with single compartment stomachs such as humans, dogs, cats and horses, death will be instant," Dr Arun added.

In 2020, veterinary doctors in Kadur removed 30 kg plastic and iron pieces from the stomach of a pregnant cow, an indication of how rampant the problem is.

The High Court has dismissed the election petition filed by senior Congress leader and former minister T B Jayachandra, questioning the bypoll victory of his rival candidate Dr C M Rajesh Gowda of the BJP from Sira Assembly seat in Tumakuru district

2 more DGP posts for K'taka soon

State has six DGPs as of now; if sanctioned, two senior additional DGPs will be promoted

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru:

KARNATAKA police may soon have two more posts of Director General of Police (DGP). According to sources, the State government as part of cadre review, had early last year sent a proposal to the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) to sanction one more post of DGP. "The notification from the Centre is awaited. It is under process," said informed sources.

The MHA, according to sources, sent the file to the Department of Personnel & Training (DoPT), which is the coordinating agency of the Central Government in personnel matters, specially issues concerning recruitment, training, career development and staff welfare."It's a long process, the DoPT will send the file to the Ministry of Finance, Cabinet Secretary and the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet. The DoPT will issue the notification to the state thereafter," said sources.

For every cadre post of DGP, the state government is at liberty to create an ex-cadre post. Cadre review is conducted every five years. The last cadre review of Karnataka born IPS officers was done in 2015. In 2020, it was stalled due to the pandemic.

If the Centre sanctions one cadre post of DGP, the state is likely to sanction an ex-cadre post. Two senior Additional Directors General of Police -- Bhaskar Rao of 1990 batch, and Sunil Agarwal of 1991 batch of the IPS – will be promoted as DGP in case the two DGP posts are sanctioned.

As of now, there are six DGPs in Karnataka including the Director General & Inspector General of Police (DG&IGP). The other five top posts include DGPs, Criminal Investigation Department; PS Sandhu, Home Guards, Fire & Emergency Services; Amar Pandey, Prisons; Alok Mohan, Civil Rights Enforcement, P Ravindranath and the incumbent City police commissioner Kamal Pant. Of these, only three - DG&IGP, CID and Home Guards, Fire & Emergency Services – are cadre posts.

CD-gate: HC wants State to submit report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

REITERATING that the state government should ensure that no closure report is filed by the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing the CD scandal, allegedly involving former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, the Karnataka High Court on Friday directed it to submit the detailed report of the investigation carried out in connection with the FIRs registered into the case.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj asked Advocate General Prabhuling K Navadagi to ensure that no closure report is filed and submit the investigation report by Monday so that matter can be heard on Tuesday.

The court was hearing a batch of petitions filed against constitution of the SIT based on the letter written by the accused to the Home Minister and other issues.

Four arrested, 134 kg ganja seized

Bengaluru: The Konanakunte police have arrested a gang of four drug peddlers and seized 134 kg of marijuana (ganja) from them. The accused are M Samanth, Sidari Bonji Babu alias Philip, his brother Sidari Mahesh and Vanthala Nagesh, all from Visakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh. Their associate Balaraju managed to escape. A senior police officer said that acting on a tip-off, police checked the car of Samanth, who works at a pharma company, at Gottigere Toll Gate and found 41 kg of ganja. Based on his information, police raided a hotel near Koli farm, nabbed three of his associates and seized 93 kg of ganja. ENS

Jilted lover vandalises 7 cars, held

Bengaluru: A 26-year-old jilted lover has been arrested for vandalising seven cars parked in front of the houses in Basaveshwaranagar and Mahalakshmi Layout on Thursday. Basaveshwaranagar police said that Satish S, a resident of JC Nagar in Kurubarahalli, is a carpenter, and was traced from CCTV footage. A senior police officer said that Satish was in a relationship with a girl from Tamil Nadu. Miffed when she started avoiding him and refused to answer his phone calls, he went for a ride on his two-wheeler and, under the influence of alcohol, damaged the vehicles, including four SUVs, by hitting them with a wooden pole. Residents alerted the police who took him to custody. ENS

Attack not linked to RTI activism: Cops

GOVINDARAJU said that his brother Venkatesh had sought documents under RTI on the construction of a building on government land, and alleged that the police are diverting attention. The cheque bounce case against Venkatesh was solved in the court a year ago, he added.

"They have found the CCTV footage. Let the police arrest the accused and find out the real reason behind the attack," he said.

Venkatesh S

A senior police officer said that preliminary investigations revealed no links between the attack and Venkatesh's RTI activism. The attack left Venkatesh with a severed right arm and right leg, which were rejoined after a complicated surgical procedure at Hosmat Hospital. He has been admitted to ICU and his condition is said to be stable.

"A special team has been formed to arrest the assailants and we have definite clues about them," the police officer said. A gang of five men, armed with lethal weapons, came on bikes and attacked Venkatesh before fleeing.

RIVER MGMT BOARDS TO OVERSEE PROJECTS

Decision in congruence with AP's demand, TS not in agreement

VV BALAKRISHNA @ Hyderabad

THE Union Jal Shakti Ministry issued a Gazette notification in the wee hours of Friday, bringing all the irrigation projects, except the minor ones, in Telangana and Andhra Pradesh under the control the Krishna River Management Board (KRMB) and Godavari River Management Board (GRMB). The Boards have been full control over 36 and 71 projects in the Krishna and Godavari basins, respectively.

The Ministry's decision is in congruence with Andhra Pradesh's demands. Telangana, however, had maintained that the projects should not be brought under the Boards' control until it received a fair share in the river waters.

The Gazette notification lists out the projects in three schedules -- those under Schedule-1 and Schedule-2 will be controlled by the Boards, while the ones mentioned under Schedule-3 will be operated by the respective States, but the Boards will ordinarily have the jurisdiction. While the Boards will manage the projects, the requisite funds must be provided by the Telugu States (₹200 crore each for each Board).

The 36 projects in the Krishna basin and 71 in the Godavari basin were included in Schedule-1 of the notification. This means that both the river basins will be under the direct control of the Central government.

Speaking to the media in Delhi on Friday, Union Jal Shakti Ministry joint secretary Sanjay Awasthi elaborated on the salient features of the notification. "We have issued the notification after seven years of discussions on the super sensitive issue," Awasthi said. He said that the decision to bring projects under the jurisdiction of the Boards was taken as per the provisions of the AP Reorganisation Act, 2014, and after a discussion in the second Apex Council meeting. Awasthi said that the projects which were not approved were also included in Schedule-1.

"Both the state governments shall stop all the ongoing works on unapproved projects as on the date of publication of this notification until the said projects are appraised and approved as per the provisions of the AP Reorganisation Act and in accordance with the decisions taken in the second meeting of the Apex Council. If approvals are not obtained within six months, the projects shall cease to operate", the notification said.

Malnad, coast come under heavy rain

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Karwar/ Mangaluru/ Madikeri:

RAIN continued to lash the Karnataka coast, further inland and the Malnad region through Friday, wreaking havoc in these regions.

Uttara Kannada district witnessed heavy rainfall and landslides, leading to a few temples in Gokarna being waterlogged. The coastal taluks of the district and interior places like Sirsi, Siddapura, Joida, Dandeli and Haliyal witnessed heavy rainfall, with rivers and other water bodies brimming over.

Union Minister of State for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Shobha Karandlaje held a virtual meeting from New Delhi, with deputy commissioners (DCs) of Udupi and Chikkamagaluru districts via video conference. She sought information about the rainfall disrupting life in coastal districts and the Malnad region. She directed Udupi DC G Jagadeesh and Chikkamagaluru DC K N Ramesh to assist people affected by rain, and keep her updated about any natural calamities.

Several places along the coast witnessed sea erosion -- Karwar's Ravindranath Tagore beach, Majali on the Karwar-Goa border and in Ankola and Kumta.

Landslides were also reported. At Kavoor in Honnavar taluk, a hillock caved in and a huge boulder rolled down on Thursday evening, stopping a few yards from a house below in the hills. The residents had a narrow escape. The house belonged to Army personnel Suresh Gouda.

The Madikeri-Mangaluru NH-275 witnessed several minor landslides, following incessant rainfall since Wednesday. The highway had suffered severe damage following major roadslides near Madikeri, Madenadu and Jodupala areas. Work was taken up at a cost of Rs 22 crore, and included construction of retaining walls at several vulnerable spots. However, a highway contractor confirmed that there is no major threat.

First relief centre opens in Madikeri

Madikeri: The first relief centre opened in Madikeri taluk at Koyanadu area in Sampaje limits on Friday. However, the villagers will stay at the centre only during the night and the centre will function fully only in case of heavy rainfall. "There is a dam built by the minor irrigation department in the area. Following heavy rainfall, uprooted trees were blocking the flow in the river and this led to a flood threat in the area. Hence, villagers from six families reported to the relief centre," confirmed Madikeri tahashildar Mahesh. However, the uprooted trees were cleared by the forest department.

Vombatkere, a man of many crusades

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

CHIEF Justice of India N V Ramana, who on Thursday questioned the Centre about the need for the colonial sedition law, lauded the petitioner Major General S G Vombatkere (retired) as somebody who has staked his whole life for the country as a soldier, and now has been a veteran of many battles to uphold the nation's Constitutional values.

Back in Mysuru, the 79-year-old Vombatkere is known as a major voice for the protection of the heritage of Mysuru and a crusader on environment and development issues in Mysuru.

As a member of the Mysuru heritage committee and member of the Mysore Grahaka Parishat, he has taken up various subjects pertaining to the city — chopping of trees for development works, the Disneyland project and many others that were projected to have an adverse effect on the environment — during his three decades of stay in Mysuru.

Having served in the Army for 35 years and rising to the rank of Major General, he retired as Additional Director General in charge of disciple and vigilance at the Army Headquarters.

"We have a great association and know him since 2004 and he is a man of discipline and commands respect. He always thinks and works for the protection of Mysuru's heritage. If he is with us, it's a great strength and he is also a role model to many," says historian and heritage expert N S Rangaraju.

Human rights activist and advocate Baburaj said Vombatkere has been a notable voice in environment and heritage issues related to Mysuru. He recalled how the retired army officer had led a protest to prevent the chopping of trees for road widening near Deputy Commissioner's official residence.

When contacted, Maj Gen Vombatkere declined to comment saying that the matter is sub-judice.

NIA TELLS HC

ACCUSED FORMED TERROR GANG TO SMUGGLE GOLD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

THE NIA on Friday informed the Kerala High Court that the motive of Swapna Suresh and other accused in Thiruvananthapuram gold smuggling case was to gain money by causing extensive and irreparable damage to the security and economic stability of the country.

"For committing the terrorist act, the accused conspired together, recruited people, formed a terrorist gang, raised funds and smuggled around 167kg of gold from the UAE since November 2019, through import cargo addressed to diplomats at the UAE Consulate in Thiruvananthapuram," the NIA (National Investigation Agency) said, while opposing Swapna's bail plea.

"Detaining the main conspirators, including Swapna Suresh, in judicial custody, is absolutely necessary considering the transnational ramification," it said.

The offence under UAPA (Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act) will stand against Swapna Suresh, who is one of the prime conspirators in the case, said NIA. Their motive was threatening the economic security of India, besides damaging the friendly relations of the UAE with India.

According to NIA, evidence has to be collected regarding the source of smuggled gold and the involvement of any other players inimical to the economic security of India, in facilitating the crime from the UAE.

Swapna's counsel Sooraj T Elenjickal argued that the allegations in the chargesheet would not attract any offence under UAPA and the chargesheet does not disclose sufficient material evidence.

Stranded Bhatkal man seeks help

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

A 31-year old man from Bhatkal, working as a seafarer on a cargo ship in Iran, has been stranded at the port of Chabahar for more than 19 months. A dispute among the owners of the ship, and the pandemic forced Yaseen Shah to lead a tough life in the docking area of the Iranian port.

For the past six months, he has not been contacted by the ship owners or the agency that brought him here one and half years ago. Yaseen landed in Iran in January 2020 and started working as a seafarer on a cargo ship anchored at the port. But the ship never set sail, though movement of other cargo ships resumed after the pandemic situation improved.

"I have taken a loan of nearly Rs 6 lakh to get a degree and reach Iran. I also paid money to the agency which offered me a job as seafarer for $200 per month. But when I reached Iran, the agreement was changed by the Iranian agency. Most of the Indians who come here as seafarers are often duped as the agreement is in Persian," Yaseen Shah narrated his plight to TNIE.

"For six months, I have not been offered any ration or assistance by the ship owners or agency. I have been having my meals at other ships docked here. The company offered me an air ticket to India six months ago, but refused to pay wages for an entire year," he said.

Several organisations from India and abroad have been trying to help Yaseen. Shirali Shaikh Muzaffer, founder president of Aim India Forum, said a contact was established with the Indian Embassy in Iran.

Roads that help language travel to next generation

AZEEFA FATHIMA @ Virudhunagar

THIS panchayat president is on a mission; a mission to teach the coming generations the significance of Tamil language.

Meet Rajeswari (50), panchayat president of Aathipatti in Aruppukottai, who is carrying out the long lost work of her husband Yogavasudevan (69) - christening streets with Tamil names.

Yogavasudevan was the panchayat president in 2006 when he started christening the 'nameless' streets in his panchayat with Tamil names. He had successfully named around 50 streets. However, the work came to a grinding halt after his tenure ended. Rajeswari won as an independent candidate in the panchayat election and assumed office in 2019. Though the old streets have names, those formed as an extension don't.

TN claims K'taka didn't get nod for Mekedatu project

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

UNION Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat has conveyed to the delegation of leaders of Tamil Nadu legislature parties that the question of Karnataka building a new dam at Mekedatu does not arise since the State has not fulfilled any of the pre-requisites, like obtaining consent of the riparian States, including Tamil Nadu, the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) and the Central Water Commission, said Water Resources Minister Durai Murugan on Friday.

Speaking to reporters after meeting the Union Minister in New Delhi, Durai Murugan said, "The delegation urged the minister that at any instance, the Union government should not act in favour of Karnataka in building the dam. We also pointed out that the permission given by the Central Water Commission to Karnataka."

KERALA'S POINTLESS COURT BATTLE OVER ASSEMBLY RUCKUS

If the Supreme Court's observations in the 2015 Kerala Assembly ruckus case are anything to go by, the Pinarayi Vijayan government is on the verge of suffering another embarrassment at the hands of the top court. During the arguments on the government's petition for permission to withdraw the criminal case registered against six LDF legislators for the violence in the state Assembly on Budget day in 2015, the court said there was no logic in the demand and asked what the public interest was in allowing those who destroyed public property to go unpunished. As per the FIR, the six MLAs—two of them, including general education minister V Sivankutty, are members of the current Assembly—caused damages worth ₹2,20,093 by destroying electronic equipment and furniture.

Driven by a clear political motive to protect the accused leaders from prosecution, the government first approached the Thiruvananthapuram chief judicial magistrate and then the Kerala High Court. Both found no merit in its arguments. Now, the SC Bench's observations need to be considered as a warning that nobody is above the law and the court is committed to ending the practice of destroying public property in the name of protests. By deciding to continue its argument, the state has lost the last chance to withdraw the petition and prevent further damage.

Approaching the SC with appeals even in cases with little chance of success has become a habit for the government. In December last year, the state lost an appeal against the HC order for a CBI probe into the murder of two Youth Congress workers, allegedly by CPM workers. In the same month, the state challenged another HC order allowing 5,000 devotees per day for the Makaravilakku festival at Sabarimala, but it was not taken up for hearing till the conclusion of the pilgrimage season. The latest is the appeal against the HC order imposing a wage cut for government employees who struck work in January 2019. The prudent thing to do is to accept reasonable court directives. Fighting losing battles by engaging high-profile lawyers only drains the exchequer. With a pandemic to control and a slumping economy to rescue, the government has more important jobs to do than being a nuisance litigant.

LAIDBACK RESPONSE IN TN TO FUEL PRICE HIKE

With fuel prices at an all-time high forcing the poor to curtail spending, it is fair to expect huge political protests across India demanding immediate relief. But surprisingly there is little action on the streets in Tamil Nadu or elsewhere. While the second wave of Covid locked up many parts of the nation for weeks and restricted political activity, the situation has since improved. Yet, the opposition doesn't seem to have whipped up a storm to build pressure on the government, except for many posts on social media. When Parliament's Monsoon Session opens next week, there surely will be some drama on the matter, but will it force a rethink? As things stand, India appears to have reconciled itself to a long phase of high fuel prices, since the international crude market is nowhere near cooling.

The cost of fuel was already creeping up when the DMK was fighting the state polls a few months ago while in the opposition, so it promised to lower the price of petrol by ₹5 a litre and diesel by ₹4 per litre in its manifesto. Topping it up was the promise of subsidising cooking gas by ₹100 per cylinder. But compulsions of realpolitik dawned on the party after it came to power, as a combative state finance minister P T R Palanivel Thiagarajan indulged in hair-splitting, saying the manifesto did make the promise but did not say the rates would be cut immediately. The DMK's allies, too, could not be bothered about it, indulging as they did in token protests that lacked conviction.

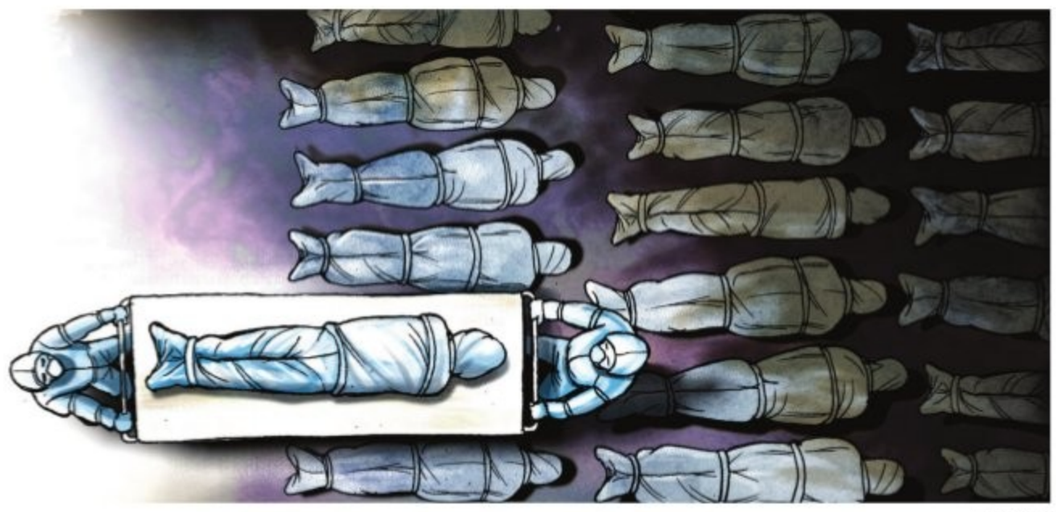
While Covid's pressures on the state and Central finances are well understood, high fuel rates have a cascading effect on commodity prices, including cost of household essentials, pushing them that much away from the people in distress. Making a trade-off between offering support to the common people to rebuild their livelihood torn apart by Covid and raising revenue for reviving the economy through high government spending is decidedly tough. But they are not mutually exclusive. The need is to find resources to strike the right balance to tamp down prices while reviving the economy. One hopes the collective wisdom of Parliament can find a way out.

Policy formulation requires good data. The pandemic has flagged not only weaknesses in the health infrastructure, particularly in some states, but also data issues in the nation

COVID: DEATH NUMBERS ARE TAXING

BIBEK DEBROY

Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the PM



AMIT BANDRE

"In this world, nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes." Benjamin Franklin's letter made this expression famous, but the phrase pre-dates him. Death is certain for any individual, but death statistics are not that certain, robust and reliable. So far, around 4,12,500 people have died because of the Wuhan virus in India and there are those who question this number. Modelling by The Economist is an instance, with numbers till 10 May 2021. "We estimate that, by May 10, there was a 95% probability that the pandemic had brought about between 2.4m and 7.1m excess deaths in Asia (official Covid-19 deaths: 0.6m), 1.5m-1.8m deaths in Latin America and the Caribbean (v 0.6m), 0-2.1m deaths in Africa (v 0.1m), 1.5m-1.6m deaths in Europe (v 1.0m) and 0.6-0.7m deaths in America and Canada (v 0.6m) ... On the basis of the model, it would appear that around 1m people may have died of Covid-19 in India so far this year." Around 4,12,500 is a current figure. On May 10, the figure was around 2,50,000. Therefore, The Economist's model suggested the actual number of deaths in India was four times the official figure. Note that (a) this is a stochastic model, with a 95% probability, and (b) under-reporting of deaths, as per the model, is not sui generis to India.

The memory of another model is fresh, that of Goldman Sachs predicting the outcome of the Euro Cup 2020. As per that model, Belgium was going to win, beating Italy in the final, with England eliminated in the quarter-final. Memories of two other models are buried deep in our subconscious now. Between 18 March and 21 March 2020, Dr Ramanan Laxminarayan, Director of the Center for Disease Dynamics, Economics and Policy, granted interviews to all and sundry and projected that India would have 700 to 800 million infections and 2 to 2.5 million dead. Towards the end of March 2020, a high-ranking government official told us there would be no new cases beyond 16 May 2020. Both assertions were based on models and there were equations and graphs to back up the assertions. We are inordinately impressed with models, graphs and equations. This reminds me of Catherine the Great and the Diderot-Euler anecdote. Briefly, atheist Diderot (who knew no maths) pestered Catherine and she roped in Euler, the mathematician. Euler went up to Diderot, mouthed an equation that was gibberish and said, "Therefore, God exists." Diderot took to his heels and fled the court. Any model is based on assumptions, conditioned by data availability and is probabilistic. A modeller should say, with 95% (or whatever number) probability, the range of deaths in India is between X and Y. True to the art, a modeller should always do interval estimation, never point estimation. But interval estimation doesn't impress. It doesn't suggest precision.

In discussing models, we shouldn't muddle two issues. (a) Are deaths registered? (b) Are deaths correctly attributed to Covid? The Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969, makes death registration mandatory, with responsibilities fixed and penalties for violation. But that doesn't mean all deaths are registered, especially in rural India, though numbers have increased over time. Even in rural India, people rightly perceive benefits associated with death registration, such as in inheritance matters. There is a sample registration system (SRS) to validate whether the civil registration system registers deaths accurately. The last SRS numbers are for 2019 and they tell us not all deaths are registered. States that stand out in non-registration are J&K (66.7%), UP (63.3%), Bihar (51.6%), Jharkhand (58.8%), Arunachal Pradesh (38.6%), Assam (74%), Nagaland (30%) and Manipur (21.4%). If all deaths are not registered, it stands to reason all deaths due to the pandemic will also not be registered. This isn't a problem sui generis to India either. For upper middle-income countries, the World Bank tells us 75.97% of deaths are registered. At 92.7% in 2019, India is far ahead of this average and there have been extremely sharp improvements over time, perhaps even improvements between 2019 and 2021. If someone tells me deaths are not registered in India, the (a) proposition, that is certainly possible, but cannot logically be on a large-scale. While the law requires mandatory registration within 21 days, penalties for registration beyond this timeline are minor. I think it is plausible that during Covid and lockdown, people postponed registration. The updating of death numbers, as has been done by some states, may be explained by this factor, not deliberate fudging.

> This isn't a problem sui generis to India. For upper middle-income nations, the World Bank tells us 75.97% of deaths are registered. At 92.7% in 2019, India is far ahead of this and there have been sharp improvements over time

The (b) proposition is different and we have several problems with medical certification of cause of death (MCCD). Roughly 20% of deaths registered are covered by MCCD. Even in those cases, it isn't guaranteed that the "cause" has been reported adequately. Even if the cause is generally reported adequately, it doesn't follow that one has pinpointed Covid as the cause adequately. There are anomalies and inconsistencies in defining what a Covid death is. In West Bengal, in 2019, around 14% of deaths were medically certified. That cannot become 100% overnight simply because there was a pandemic. In principle, the pandemic will have differentially affected the cause of death. For example, fewer deaths from road accidents. But deaths from other ailments would have increased, since Covid has meant relative neglect of other diseases. Policy formulation requires good data, apart from uncertainty and time lags. Data is generated from below and aggregated upwards. The pandemic not only flags weaknesses in health infrastructure (both physical and social), particularly in some states, but also data issues.

LAOS DEBT CRISIS AS RELIANCE ON CHINA INCREASES

SHANKARI SUNDARARAMAN

Professor at School of International Studies, JNU, New Delhi

ASIAN AXIS

In November 2020, my article for this column looked at how Cambodia was a weak link in the ASEAN chain. Reference was made to both Cambodia and Laos as states that are integrally part of the ASEAN, but are also areas of concern for the group's unity and cohesion, especially as these states are increasingly coming under the influence of their larger neighbour, China. This article looks at how Laos, which has gone through a leadership change in March 2021, has been trying to balance its external debt even as regional geopolitical shifts continue to have a huge impact on such small states.

In the first week of July, an article in Asia Times by Peter Janssen highlighted that Laos had redeemed a $150 million bond that had been listed on the Singapore Exchange. The article clearly stated that this was a small percentage of the external debt that Laos owed over the next five years. For nearly a year now, the economic situation in which Laos finds itself has been a matter of concern, for the country and the region at large. It was also indicative of the growing closeness between Laos and China even as Beijing is the highest contributor to the former's external debt. In September 2020, Laos' foreign exchange reserves had reached an all-time low of $1 billion. This depletion in its reserves was critical as the levels of its debt repayments exceeded the foreign reserves, pushing the small country to the brink of defaulting on its sovereign debt.

A timeline of Laos' external debt and its evolving ties with China is critical in the context of understanding where it stands currently compared to when it joined the ASEAN. Prior to its entry into the grouping in July 1997, its external debt (in December 1996)was around $769.6 million. The focus of ASEAN expansion to include new members such as Vietnam, Myanmar, Laos and Cambodia (known as the CLMV countries) was two-fold: first to bring all members of Southeast Asia under the ASEAN framework as the Cold War had ended and ideological divides were no longer critical in the region; second, to reduce the economic gap between the original ASEAN members and the new ones, particularly the CLMV countries that lagged behind in their economic development as compared to the older members of the grouping. This approach, however, does not seem to have made much headway, particularly in the context of Laos and Cambodia.

At the height of the Cold War, Laos' relations with China were tenuous given the close ties the former had with Vietnam. The space for furthering bilateral relations with China opened up after the Cold War ended. Economically too, Laos had closer ties with both Thailand and Vietnam, which were its immediate neighbours. Thailand continues to be its largest trading partner and till the 1997 Asian Financial Crisis, it had also been the largest investor in Laos. While the end of the Cold War allowed political ties with Beijing to improve steadily, China's rapid integration into the global economy also had a profound impact on the smaller states in its immediate vicinity. The impact for Laos has been a dual one: first, as Beijing's economic space expanded, it provided an outlet for Laos' raw materials into the Chinese manufacturing space; second, manufactured goods from China found access to markets within Laos. It simultaneously opened up its economy to foreign direct investment and as Thai investments reduced following the 1997 crisis, China became one of the foremost investors.

> For nearly a year now, the economic situation in which Laos finds itself has been a matter of concern, for the country and the region at large. It is also indicative of the growing closeness between Laos and China even as Beijing is the highest contributor to the former's external debt

In December 2019, just prior to the Covid-19 outbreak, Laos' external debt stood at nearly $9.9 billion, when its GDP for the same period was to the tune of $18.9 billion, making its external debt almost 52% of its GDP. A World Bank Study indicates that for the year 2020, the external debt will be 69% of the GDP.

Out of this external debt of $9.9 billion, almost $5.9 billion is the amount that Laos has incurred as loan to build the Vientiane-Boten railway project that will link its capital to China's Kunming as part of the BRI project. For China, the BRI extending into Laos is critical in the context of its Indochina Peninsular Corridor, which is a vital node in the project's objectives for Southeast Asia. This in effect makes the external debt that Laos has incurred to China around 60% of the total as on December 2019, even before the pandemic. As with all economies globally, Laos' economy too has shrunk as a result of Covid-19. Similarly, the growth rate for 2020 has dropped to 0.4% while the same for 2019 was 5.5%. Estimates are stating that by end 2021, the economic growth may stabilise at 0.8%, but the uncertainties of the variants and lengthy lockdowns may continue to impact the country, increasing its reliance on China even further.

As the new leadership continues to deal with the situation, there are critical areas to address. First, can diversification of external debt, which is already visible, be an option for Laos? Second, while being open to infrastructure investments from China, how much political accommodation will Laos have to provide to its increasingly aggressive giant neighbour?

Misusing sedition

The Supreme Court deserves compliments for questioning the government on the need for a colonial-era sedition law 75 years after Independence. The court's complaints about the misuse of this law follows the growing clamour against the legislation among the people. As expected, several opposition leaders have hailed the SC's observations.

N J Ravi Chander, Bengaluru

SC must strike it down

The propriety of the sedition law has been questioned on various occasions in the past. The SC's question to the Centre is the latest. The point of the sedition law does seem to be to suppress free thought, speech and writing, all of which are unpopular with governments. Given the statute's frequent misuse and with Parliament seemingly reluctant to revoke it, it's high time the apex court strikes it down on its own.

E Sethuramalingam, Kollam

Can't repeal statute yet

One must accept the fact that several laws and even a large portion of our Constitution continue to reflect British legacy. The freedom of expression has been misused in the past before. There are some instances even in the present. Several external forces have also influenced a number of Indians living within the country and abroad to sabotage the nation's sovereignty. As the Attorney General rightly pointed out, the sedition law can be amended or redrafted so that it meets modern legal requirements, but it should not be done away with. As long as there are enemy nations conspiring to destabilise India by using our own people, the sedition law cannot and should not be repealed.

The bond remains

This is with reference to E-flowers on digital graves (July 16). The author has given a telling account of the things that kept her bond with her mother alive despite the distance between them. Even upon the death of her mother, the daughter could still see her in her gadgets, gifts, birds, plants, her chair, the balcony, etc., that will never truly keep them apart. Death can be cruel, but the bond remains.

Sanath Kumar T S, Thrissur

Pandemic in perspective

The article was a wonderfully woven piece on death and grief. Though death is universal and omnipresent, it affects each individual differently. Even in her mourning, the author has managed to put the pandemic, which has been reduced to academic and numeric statistics by experts, into perspective. Kudos to her for the sentimental and authentic piece. May her mother rest in peace.

Sridharan S, Coimbatore

Law applicable to everyone

By arguing for the withdrawal of the case registered against the MLAs who vandalised the Kerala Legislative Assembly during the 2015 Budget speech, the state government was only trying to defend the indefensible. Needless to say, the law of the land must be equally applicable to everyone.

C G Kuriakose, Kothamangalam

Well-thought-out initiative

Malayali homestay owner in Kodaikanal, Sudheesh K, has offered free vacations for those who failed in the Kerala SSLC exams, the result of which was recently announced. This may seem very unusual, but it is actually a well-thought-out initiative to address the mental stress and ridicule experienced by students who fail as all the attention is usually on those who did well and topped the exams.

A Raveendranath, Aranmula

Govt not bothered

Only the people seem to be concerned about Kitex Garments scrapping its `3,500 crore project in Kerala. The LDF is not showing any worry, probably because this is not the first company to leave the state during their regime.

Focus on Afghanistan in summit on connectivity

World must have confidence in governance in war-torn nation: EAM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

S Jaishankar at the Central-South Asia connectivity conference in Tashkent | PTI

THE meeting on 'Central and South Asia: Connectivity' in Uzbekistan on Friday had an underlying agenda — deteriorating security situation in Afghanistan, with hectic parleys taking place on the sidelines.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, who began his Afghan engagement in Tajikistan earlier this week, with discussions with Afghan Foreign Minister Mohamed Haneef Atmar, had meetings with Afghan President Ashraf Ghani and US Special Envoy for Afghanistan, Zalmay Khalilzad.

On Friday, Jaishankar held discussions on the war-torn country with European Union High Representative on Foreign Affairs, Josep Borrell Fontelles. The external affairs minister briefly touched upon the Afghan situation in his address. "Development and prosperity go hand in hand with peace and security. For reliable connectivity within and through Afghanistan, the world must have confidence in its governance. Our connectivity deliberations expect predictability, efficiency and observance of norms of our time as its foundation," he said.

Afghanistan President Ghani slammed Pakistan for its inability to stop terrorists crossing over to Afghanistan. "Pakistan needs to engage constructively in the peace process for the region. Permit me to make it clear, our government is committed to peace, but our forces are prepared to fight to protect our people," he said.

Responding to Ghani's comments, Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan said that two issues — the situation in Afghanistan and disputes between regional players — were hampering connectivity in the region. "Disappointed. Pakistan has done more than anyone to convince the Taliban for peace," he said. Khan also brought up the Kashmir issue, saying that if the dispute is resolved between India and Pakistan, the region can open up for connectivity and prosperity.

Meanwhile, in apparent references, Jaishankar slammed Pakistan and China for causing hindrance in connectivity projects. He hit out at Pakistan for only agreeing in principle for projects and not following them up on the ground and blamed China for not respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of nations. The real issues are of mindset, not disputes. Blocking connectivity while professing support benefits no one.

Creator of iconic images trolled even in death

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE news of Reuters photojournalist and Pulitzer prize winner Danish Siddiqui's death drew strange reactions from right wing extremists on social media on Friday.

During the second wave of Covid-19, Siddiqui had photographed a funeral ground where mass cremations were taking place. They showed the scale of the pandemic and grieving family members. Soon after, he was trolled viciously, with right wing extremists saying the snaps showed India in a poor light. Using expletives, one account user named Yoda wrote on Friday: "Last took photos of Hindu cremations at the peak of 2nd wave and splashed it across foreign media to not only demean India but also to degrade Hinduism."

Another account user Rishabh wrote: "This probably the best news today (sic). Took these drone shots. Very good. Got what he deserved."

Siddiqui had taken a drone shot of a funeral ground in the national capital during the second wave of the pandemic. Anand Shridhar wrote: "Siddiqui violated the sacred funeral rites of hundreds of Hindus with his drone stunt to build a narrative."

There were more. One Bikram wrote: "Okay. We will celebrate deaths of people like Danish Siddiqui. Now cope." Kaushal B, who claims to be a writer and ABVP Jalandhar activist on his Twitter bio, wrote: "Sorry to say! But I feel no such mourning & grievance with the death of Siddiqui."

However, there were several who expressed grief. Former J&K Chief Minister Omar Abdullah condemned the trolling. "That @dansiddiqui was killed by the Taliban while doing his job in Afghanistan is tragic but the fact that there are bs out there celebrating his death because Danish was good at his job & made them uncomfortable is beyond reprehensible. Rot in hell RW trolls."

Celebrating the pictures Siddiqui took, Amber Ajay Tiwari wrote: "He told stories through his pictures. He fought for the oppressed with his lens. What a great photojournalist he was. His death has proven that the Taliban of all colours must not be forgotten."

A gem of a person for well-wishers, colleagues

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

"IF a picture is worth a thousand words, his were worth millions. ... He will never be forgotten," mourned Professor Farhat Basir Khan, who taught Danish Siddiqui at Jamia Millia Islamia University.

Khan is not alone. For Jamia faculty, friends, and colleagues, the loss of the man who shot some of the most iconic pictures in the recent years was personal. "Danish was special not because of his professional achievements but because of the wonderful man he was. He was one of those alumni who kept regular touch with the photography department and visited the campus often," Professor Shohini Ghosh said.

Siddiqui had completed his MA from AJK Mass Communication Research Centre in 2007. While Dr Sabeena Gadihoke admitted that the teaching community was still in shock, Professor Suhail Akhatar asserted many of his student's works would be remembered as iconic images.

Siddiqui's father Akhtar Siddiqui himself is a retired professor of Jamia. "I am not in a state to talk," he said, adding that he spoke to his son two days ago and talked about the assignment in Afghanistan.

Fellow lensmen vouched for Siddiqui's professionalism. "There is no photo journalist like him. He was the best in India. Be it professionally or personally, he was a great human being. He will always be in our hearts and his work," said Reuters photographer Adnan Abidi, who won Pulitzer with Siddiqui. PTI's Arun Sharma remembered Siddiqui as a gem of a person, soft spoken and down to earth. "Journalists usually take photos, write stories and forget. Siddiqui connected with them and made sure that that they are safe."

Pilot slams BJP for instability in Uttarakhand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Dehradun

CONGRESS leader Sachin Pilot on Friday blamed BJP for creating instability in Uttarakhand by changing chief ministers twice in four months.

Pilot held a press conference in Dehradun. "BJP has cheated the people of Uttarakhand. People voted them to power to work, not go change chief ministers every other day. This shows that the government has failed to deliver the people's expectations," said the former Deputy CM of Rajasthan.

Pilot lashed out at the state government and Centre for inflation and unemployment. "Inflation in India has touched an all-time high, with rising petrol and deisel prices. Now, prices of diesel and petrol are more than desi ghee. This is when the price of crude oil in the international market is going down. The Centre and state both have cheated the people of Uttarakhand," added Pilot.

Rajnath apprises Pawar, Antony of LAC stand-off

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh met Congress leader AK Antony and Nationalist Congress Party president Sharad Pawar on Friday and briefed them about the prevailing situation along the Line of Actual Control in Eastern Ladakh.

Both Antony and Pawar were Defence Ministers. Sources in the defence ministry said: "CDS Gen Bipin Rawat and Indian Army Chief Gen MM Naravane were present during the briefing." This meeting took place in New Delhi. It is viewed as an outreach initiative of the government before the Monsoon Session of Parliament starts on July 19.

Recently, former Congress president Rahul Gandhi had walked out of a parliamentary standing committee meeting of defence ministry while demanding that it should discuss border issues, border tension with China even though they were not part of the agenda.

Gandhi has been alleging that India ceded land to China after the armies of the two countries clashed in Eastern Ladakh in May, 2020, which had led to stand-offs at multiple points. Even now, there are more than 50,000 soldiers still deployed along the Line of Actual Control.

This meeting between Rajnath and the two former Defence Ministers took place a day after Foreign Minister S Jaishankar and his Chinese counterpart Wang Yi met in Tajikistan during the Foreign Ministers' meeting of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation, a regional grouping of eight nations. The two ministers agreed that the resolution of the border situation be prioritised, as prolonging the existing situation was not in the interest of either country.

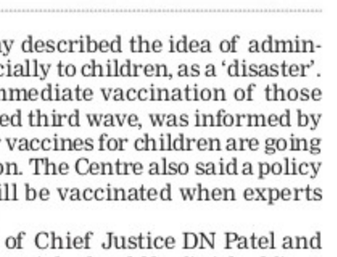
Punjab picture awaits clarity as Sidhu meets Sonia, Amarinder hosts leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi/Chandigarh

AMID speculations on the elevation of Navjot Singh Sidhu as Punjab Congress chief and reservations expressed by CM Amarinder Singh, the cricketer-turned-politician met party president Sonia Gandhi on Friday. A decision to end the tussle is expected soon.

The one-hour meeting was also attended by Rahul Gandhi and AICC general secretary and Punjab in-charge Harish Rawat. After the meeting at Sonia's residence in Delhi, Sidhu left without speaking to the media. Rawat said he was there to submit his report on Punjab to the party president and the issue is yet to be decided.

Sources said it is not clear what was discussed in the meeting, but added that Amarinder had expressed displeasure over reports of Sidhu's elevation on Thursday. Before Sidhu met Sonia, an offiocer on special duty representing Amarinder met Sonia. It was termed a routine visit.



NS Sidhu in Delhi on Friday | EXPRESS

It's learnt that Rawat might meet Amarinder. Already, there are indications that some of the party leaders want a Hindu as the Punjab Congress president. Both Amarinder and Sidhu are Jat Sikhs and it is not clear how a majority of party workers in the state would react to the appointment of a Hndu.

Member of Parliament and senior Congress leader Manish Tewari tweeted: "Demographics of Punjab — Sikhs: 57.75%, Hindus: 38.49%, Dalits: 31:94% (Sikh & Hindus). Punjab is both progressive & secular. But balancing social interest groups is key to equality," he said, and added a graph showing the religious composition in Punjab.

On Thursday night, there weere hectic activities in Chandigarh, where Amarinder met more than 20 party leaders, including cabinet ministers Rana Gurmeet Singh Sodhi, Aruna Chaudhary and Sunder Shyam Arora. Several MLAs and MPs were also present at his farmhouse.

Sidhu also met four cabinet ministers and at least six MLAs at the official residence of Co-operative and Jails Minister Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa. Others who attended Sidhu's two-hour meeting were cabinet ministers Tript Rajinder Singh Bajwa, Sukhbinder Singh Sarkaria, Charanjit Singh Channi and MLAs Pargat Singh, Kulbir Zira, Barinderjit Singh Pahra and Kuljit Nagra. All this makes the situation in Punjab Congress is complex and complicated.

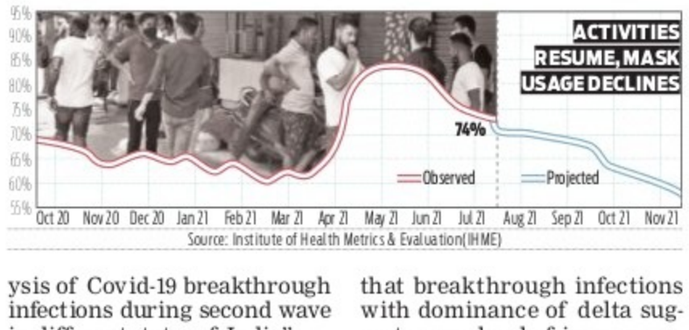
Delta behind breakthrough infections, finds study

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

A latest study by the Indian Council of Medical Research has confirmed that a majority of clinical cases in breakthrough infections during the second Covid-19 wave in India had been caused by the delta variant. The study based on 677 samples from 677 persons from 17 states who got Covid despite vaccination also found that 9.8% cases required hospitalisation. Fatality rate was 0.4%.

"This clearly suggests that vaccination does provide reduction in hospital admission and mortality," noted the authors of the paper titled "Clinical characterization and Genomic analysis of Covid-19 breakthrough infections during second wave in different states of India".

Tarun Bhatnagar, a scientist with ICMR's National Institute of Epidemiology who is not directly associated with the study, said this corroborated the dominance of delta variants during the second wave. "It also shows that breakthrough infections with dominance of delta suggests some level of immune escape by variant that can result in reduced vaccine effectiveness in general," he said, adding that there is need for accelerated vaccination to reduce the impact of the variant's higher transmission property.



Source: Institute of Health Metrics & Evaluation(IHME)

Researchers examined data for 677 breakthrough cases — 592 received both doses while 85 had got one — and found that 482 cases or 71% were symptomatic with one or more symptoms, while 29% had asymptomatic infection. Fever (69%) was the most consistent presentation followed by body ache including headache and nausea (56%), cough (45%), sore throat (37%), loss of smell and taste (22%), diarrhoea (6%), breathlessness (6%) and 1% had ocular irritation and redness.

Vaccination seems to have an obvious advantage in averting severe disease, hospitalisation and deaths, felt the scientists involved in the research.

Vax for kids in final stage of trials, Centre tells HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Delhi High Court on Friday described the idea of administering untested vaccines, especially to children, as a 'disaster'. The court, hearing a PIL on immediate vaccination of those under 18 in light of an anticipated third wave, was informed by the Centre that clinical trials for vaccines for children are going on and on the verge of completion. The Centre also said a policy will be formed and children will be vaccinated when experts give their go-ahead after trials.

Upon hearing this, the bench of Chief Justice DN Patel and Justice Jyoti Singh observed that trials should be finished first. "It would be a disaster if vaccines are administered without trials in case of children. Once trials are over, you quickly apply to children. The whole country is waiting." The matter has been listed for a next hearing on September 6. The Centre told the court that vaccination is "top most priority" and all efforts are being made to achieve the objective of 100 per cent vaccination in the shortest time possible.

Maharashtra & Kerala situation worrisome: Modi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday noted that high number of Covid-19 cases in Kerala and Maharashtra are worrisome. He mentioned in his interaction with chief ministers that similar trends were seen during January-February before the second wave.

"All of us are at a point where apprehensions of the third wave (of the pandemic) are continuously expressed. Despite experts giving positive signals due to the downward trends, increasing number of cases in a few states is still worrisome. During the last week, 80 per cent of the cases as well as 84 per cent of the fatalities came from these states," remarked the Prime Minister in his closing remarks. He was interacting with chief ministers of Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Odisha, Maharashtra and Kerala.

Modi underlined the need for proactive measures in states where cases are rising to prevent the possibility of the third wave. He underlined the expert's view that if cases keep on rising for a long time, chances of mutation of the virus will also increase and dangers of new variants will rise. He also expressed concern over the rise of cases in Europe, America, Bangladesh, Indonesia, Thailand and other countries. "This should alert us and the world. Corona is not over," said the Prime Minister, expressing concern over pictures coming post lockdown. He emphasised the need to follow protocol and avoid crowding, while exhorting political parties, social organizations, and NGOs to spread awareness.

Home Minister Amit Shah mentioned during the meeting some of these six states have a very high test positivity rate as well. The chief ministers talked about steps taken to boost medical infrastructure. They gave suggestions to deal with possible rise of cases in future. They also discussed post-Covid issues faced by patients.

Two local IS terrorists killed in Kashmir encounter

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

TWO terrorists from the Islamic State of Jammu and Kashmir (ISJK), who were involved in the killing of five security personnel and several grenade and petrol bomb attacks on security forces in Srinagar, were killed in an encounter with troops in Danmar in Eidgah area of downtown Srinagar on Friday.

A team comprising CRPF and police personnel began a search operation at Alamdar Colony in Danmar on Thursday evening after receiving specific inputs about the presence of militants in the area.

"After zeroing-in on their location, we asked them to surrender. However, they fired indiscriminately at the troops. The troops returned fire, triggering an encounter," he said. In the ensuing gunfight, which continued till Friday morning, two ISJK militants were killed. Two CRPF personnel sustained injuries. Police said an AK-47 rifle, one pistol and four grenades were recovered from the site of the encounter.

Instrumental in luring youth to terrorism

A police spokesperson said the two terrorists have been instrumental in motivating and recruiting the youth to join terror folds in Srinagar and its adjoining areas.

The deceased militants were identified as Irfan Ahmad Sofi and Bilal Ahmad Bhat, both residents of Natipora area of uptown Srinagar. The two had joined militancy in December last year.

"Both militants were affiliated with TRF, the shadow outfit of Lashkar, but they had recently announced on social media that they had left the TRF and joined ISJK," a police spokesman said.

Inspector General of Police, Kashmir, Vijay Kumar said with the killing of two terrorists, a total of 78 terrorists have been killed in different encounters in Kashmir so far this year.

Assam tables plan to increase number of cows

Wants to use selective breeding to ensure more cows and fewer bulls are born

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

DAYS after tabling a bill to protect cows, the Assam government is now planning to use artificial insemination of cattle using sex-sorted semen to ensure that more cows, not bulls, are born in the future.

"The state proposes to introduce the use of sex-sorted semen for the benefit of dairy farmers. This will lead to an increase in the number of high-quality female calves born in cattle and buffalo farms. It will control the birth of scrub bulls as 80-90% of all births would be of female calves," the state's Finance Minister Ajanta Neog said in the Assembly while reading out the state budget on Friday.

She said the birth of a higher number of cows would help the state meet an ever-increasing demand for milk.

"With 30% conception rate, at least 12,000 female calves are expected to be born in the first year. The scheme may continue by inseminating 50,000 animals annually for the next four years. Farmers' livelihood and milk production will get a massive boost, which will have a positive impact on the economy," the minister said.

Assam CM had on Thursday said, "If we look at Hindu parampara or ancient history, there is reference only to female cattle, like Kamdhenu, and how we were benefited with milk. That means there must have been something which ensured cows were more in number than bulls," Sarma said.

Meanwhile, the All India United Democratic Front attacked the government over the proposal. The party said money allocated for the proposal could have been used to alleviate the suffering caused by the pandemic. "Thousands have died. What was the need for it?" asked AIUDF legislator Aminul Islam.

Slum evacuated, train services halted as heavy rain causes flood in Mumbai's low-lying areas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

HEAVY rains lashed across Mumbai and its suburbs on Friday displacing hundreds of slum dwellers, flooding low-lying areas and disrupting the local train services.

As the Mithi river swelled to 3.7 metres in the morning, around 250 residents of Kranti Nagar, a slum-dominated area in Kurla, were evacuated to nearby municipal schools. The water level in the river, which has a danger mark of four metres, later subsided and the people returned home.

Meanwhile, a truck carrying 20 tons of tomatoes overturned on the Eastern Express Highway.. The suburban train services took a hit with stations like Sion being submerged, forcing hundreds of passengers to take shelter on the platform. The traffic was snarled up on a few flooded roads that badly affected commuting. Low lying areas like Gandhi Market, Hindmata junction, Dahisar subway, Bandra, Andheri and Santacruz reported water logging. The Regional Meteorological Centre, Mumbai, has predicted "light to moderate rain in the city and suburbs with the possibility of heavy rainfall at isolated places" for next 24 hours.

Officials said Mumbai recorded 55.3 mm of rainfall between 4 am and 9 am while 135 mm and 140.5 mm was recorded in its eastern and western suburbs respectively. The city's civic body had said a high tide of 4.08 metres will occur at 4:26 pm and a low tide of 1.43 mts at 10:37 pm.

J&K govt to identify unfit employees for termination

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A week after terminating the services of 11 government employees for alleged involvement in anti-national activities, Jammu and Kashmir government on Friday asked the administrative secretaries to identify from among those who have completed 22 years of service or have reached 48 years of age, the employees who are ineffective or unfit to continue.

"The exercise of review of performance of the government servants will be initiated for each government servant for the first time after her/his completion of 22 years of service or attaining 48 years of age and any time subsequently, as may be required," reads a circular issued by J&K Chief Secretary Arun Kumar Mehta.

It stated that the government has observed that the departments have not initiated any exercise for reviewing the performance of the government servants.

"It impressed upon all the administrative secretaries to initiate the process/exercise of reviewing the performance of any government servant, who has completed 48 years of age or 22 years of service for identifying such government servants who are ineffective in work and are not fit to continue in the post held and have no utility for the purpose for which they are employed," reads the circular.

It directed the departments to follow the procedure as laid down under Article 226(2) of the J&K Civil Service Regulations Volume I and place the cases of such employees before the review committee for consideration.

Uttarakhand to seal border with UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Dehradun

WITH Uttar Pradesh under Supreme Court pressure to call off its Kanwar Yatra slated to begin on July 25, Uttarakhand has decided to seal its borders with UP on 24th to prevent pilgrims from entering the state, especially Haridwar.

Arrangements are being made to make Haridwar impregnable, including halting trains at the border. Nilesh Anand Bharney, DIG (Law and Order) said, "We are putting all arrangements in place to ensure compliance with the government decision."

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court on Friday asked the Uttar Pradesh government to inform by July 19 whether it would reconsider its decision to hold a 'symbolic' Kanwar Yatra. The court observed that all sentiments, including religious, are subservient to the Right to Life.

After the nudge from the court, the UP government said it is holding consultations with "kanwar sanghs" to take a 'right decision'.

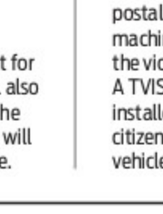
MLAs led by Suvendu to protest in Capital during Mamata's visit

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

THE heat in West Bengal politics is set to rise as BJP MLAs, led by the leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, are planning to visit Delhi and hold a demonstration against the alleged lawlessness in the state, at a time when Mamata Banerjee will be in the Capital for a week-long consultation with leaders of opposition parties.



Mamata on Thursday announced that she will visit Delhi for a week starting from July 25.

The BJP MLAs will raise their voices against the TMC on the streets of Delhi as Mamata bids to knit together an anti-BJP front ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections. "Armed with the findings of the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) which revealed the lawlessness in the state, our party's elected MLAs from Bengal will demonstrate in Delhi. We will highlight the plight of the common people. The NHRC said the situation in Bengal is the manifestation of the law of the ruler, instead of rule of law. Our direction of protest will be aimed at the Commission's findings," said a BJP leader.

Sources in the saffron camp said the decision to stage a demonstration in Delhi was taken on Friday, a day Mamata announced her visit.

"We will portray Mamata as ahead of a state who failed to protect her own people from the violence unleashed by her party workers," said a BJP leader. The ruling Trinamool Congress, too, is determined to leave no stone unturned. Party's newly-appointed general secretary Abhishek Banerjee will also be visiting Delhi and is expected to lead protests against Centre over hike in fuel prices.

ED attaches ₹4.2 cr assets of Deshmukh

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Enforcement Directorate (ED) on friday attached immovable assets worth ₹4.2 crore of former Maharashtra home minister Anil Deshmukh in connection with a money laundering case.

In March, former Mumbai police commissioner Parambir Singh alleged that Deshmukh had asked former assistant police inspector Sachin Waze to collect ₹100 crore per month from bars and illegal rackets in Mumbai. According to ED, the assets attached are held in the name of his wife Aarti Deshmukh and Premier Port Links Private Limited. The assets include a residential flat valued at ₹1.54 crore, in Worli, Mumbai and 25 land parcels of book value ₹2.67 crore, located at Dhutum village in Uran in Raigarh district. The ED claimed that its probe found "Deshmukh, while acting as home minister of Maharashtra, with dishonest intention has received illegal gratification of approximately ₹4.70 crore in cash from various orchestra bar owners, through Waze."

"Further, with the help of Delhi-based dummy companies, Deshmukh family laundered the tainted money of ₹4.18 crore and projected it as untainted by showing the same as amount received in the Trust namely Shri Sai Shikshan Sanstha," the ED claimed.

NIA court rejects bail plea of activist Anand Teltumbde

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE special National Investigation Agency (NIA) Court in Mumbai on Friday observed that there was sufficient evidence to reach to prima facie conclusion that the accusations against Anand Teltumbde in the Bhima Koregaon case are prima facie true.

The observations were made in its order refusing bail to the Dalit rights activist and scholar. In his 40-page order, Judge DE Kothalikar opined that "bail application cannot be allowed solely or exclusively on the ground that the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence is that the accused is presumed to be innocent till he is found guilty by the competent court".

The court noted Bombay High Court's findings on the availability of the material against Teltumbde showing his complicity in the crime. On the basis of such findings, the special court concluded that it was barred from exercising discretion in favour of the applicant.

City authorities seek to produce power from waste

The Chandigarh Municipal Corporation is seeking to upgrade its garbage processing plant to produce electricity and has decided to invite Punjab Engineering College, IIT-Ropar and Thapar University to prepare a Request for Proposal (RFP) and a Detailed Project Report (DPR). The corporation will also tie up with the Chandigarh Power Department to decide on the share of the electricity to be generated at Sector 25 of the plant and also decide what will be the share of the corporation in the electricity generated from the waste.

Traffic police to visit homes if penalty is not paid

Henceforth, Chandigarh Traffic Police will visit the houses to collect fines from traffic violators, who were issued a Traffic Violation Information Slip (TVIS) or a postal challan, but have not paid it. The fine will be collected through e-challan machine. Two teams comprising two members each have been constituted to visit the violators who live in the city. They will have body cameras to record their visits. A TVIS challan is issued on the basis of violations caught on the CCTV cameras installed at traffic junctions or the pictures of violations sent to the traffic police by citizens. Subsequently, a challan will be sent to the registered address of the vehicle owner.

Pvt school body to take inputs from parents on reopening

Though the Chandigarh Administration has decided to open schools for students of Classes IX to XII from July 19, the Independent Schools Association (ISA) has decided that private schools would open only if parents of at least 50% pupils are willing to send their children to schools. If not, online classes will continue. The ISA also stated that the administration should have either opened the school or continued with online classes. Chandigarh School Bus Operators Association also said it will seek parents' opinion.

Panel suggests redrawing of PU's jurisdiction

Responding to claims that the territorial jurisdiction of the Punjab University was being restricted to Mohali and Roopnagar, the university stated, "a committee has recommended the realignment of the territorial jurisdiction of the PU in such a way so that colleges located in the immediate vicinity of campus can be affiliated to it. This recommendation has been made for the convenience of students and research scholars studying or working in the colleges situated in Mohali and Roopnagar.

Europe floods: Death toll spikes to over 120 as rescue ops continue

German President says 'stunned' by devastation, pledges support to families of those killed

BERLIN

MORE than 120 people have died in devastating floods across parts of western Germany and Belgium, officials said Friday, as search and rescue operations continued for hundreds more still unaccounted for or in danger.

Authorities in the German state of Rhineland-Palatinate said 60 people had died there, including 12 residents of an assisted living facility for people with disabilities in the town of Sinzig who were surprised by a sudden rush of water from the nearby river Ahr. In neighbouring North Rhine-Westphalia state officials put the death toll at 43, but warned that the figure could increase.

German President Frank-Walter Steinmeier said he was 'stunned' by the devastation caused by the flooding and pledged support to the families of those killed and to cities and towns facing significant damage.

"In the hour of need, our country stands together," Steinmeier said in a statement Friday afternoon. "It's important that we show solidarity for those from whom the flood has taken everything."

Rescuers rushed Friday to help people trapped in their homes in the town of Erftstadt, southwest of Cologne. Regional authorities said several people had died after their houses collapsed when the ground beneath them sank suddenly. Aerial photos showed what appeared to be a massive sinkhole. "We managed to get 50 people out of their houses last night," county administrator Frank Rock said. "We know of 15 people who still need to be rescued."

Speaking to German broadcaster n-tv, Rock said that authorities had no precise number yet for how many had died. "One has to assume that some people didn't manage to escape," he said.

Authorities said late Thursday that about 1,300 people in Germany were listed as missing, but they cautioned that the high number could be due to duplicated reports and difficulties reaching people because of disrupted roads and phone service.

After Germany, where more than 100 people have died, Belgium was the hardest hit by the floods that caused homes to be ripped away and roads to be turned into wild rivers. Belgian Interior Minister Annelies Verlinden told VRT network Friday that the country's official confirmed death toll has grown to 18. The number of missing is estimated at 19.

Water levels on the Meuse river that runs from Belgium into the Netherlands remains critical, and several dikes are at risk of collapsing, Verlinden said. Authorities in the southern Dutch town of Venlo evacuated some 200 hospital patients due to the looming threat of flooding from the river.

Flash floods this week followed days of heavy rainfall in Western Europe which turned streams and streets into raging torrents that swept away cars and caused houses to collapse across the region.

Thousands of people remained homeless in Germany after their houses were destroyed or deemed at-risk by authorities, including several villages around the Steinbach reservoir that experts say could collapse under the weight of the floods. AP

GERMANY ANTICIPATES COSTLY HIT

Berlin: German officials said on Friday that the economic damage from the flooding in country's west will be immense. More than half of the 53 counties in North Rhine-Westphalia state were affected by the floods, which damaged hundreds of buildings. North Rhine-Westphalia Governor Armin Laschet said the floods "literally pulled the ground from beneath many people's feet. They lost their houses, farms or businesses." Federal and state officials have pledged financial aid to the affected areas of Germany, which also include the state of Rhineland-Palatinate, where at least 60 people died and entire villages were destroyed. The damage to Germany's economy is also expected to be severe. Several factories were flooded and key infrastructure, including parts of the A1 highway from Cologne to Bonn, were swept away. AP

Militants bomb state electricity company

Bangkok: A homemade bomb exploded at an office of Myanmar's state electricity provider on Friday, injuring at least seven people in the latest example of opponents of the military-installed government turning to violence after their peaceful protests were suppressed with deadly force. Local media reported that four employees of the Electric Power Corp. in Mandalay, the country's second biggest city, and three other people were injured. Reports from independent media gave slightly different casualty counts and said the injured included customers who had come to pay their bills. Offices and staff of EPC have been targeted since earlier this month when the government decided to crack down on customers who are not paying their bills by cutting off their service. AP

Hong Kong cops raid student union office

Hong Kong: Hong Kong's national security police on Friday raided the office of a university student union after student leaders last week commemorated a man who killed himself after stabbing a police officer. Police raided the office at the University of Hong Kong and cordoned off the area around it, the South China Morning Post said. No union members were in the office at the time. Hong Kong leader Carrie Lam earlier this week urged the university and police to take action after student leaders passed a motion expressing 'deep sadness' and appreciating the 'sacrifice' of the man who attacked the police officer. The man, Leung Kin-fai, was described by police as a 'lone wolf' domestic terrorist who was politically radicalised. AP

Reversing Benedict, Pope renews Latin Mass curbs

ROME

POPE FRANCIS cracked down on Friday on the spread of the old Latin Mass, reversing one of Pope Benedict XVI's signature decisions in a major challenge to traditionalist Catholics who immediately decried it as an attack on them and the ancient liturgy. Francis reimposed restrictions on celebrating the Latin Mass that Benedict relaxed in 2007, and went further to limit its use.

The pontiff said he was taking action because Benedict's reform had become a source of division in the church and been exploited by Catholics opposed to the Second Vatican Council, the 1960s meetings that modernised the church and its liturgy.

Critics said they had never before witnessed a pope so thoroughly reversing his predecessor. That the reversal concerned something so fundamental as the liturgy, while Benedict is still living in the Vatican as a retired pope, only amplified the extraordinary nature of Francis' move, which will result in more right-wing hostility directed at him.

Francis, 84, issued a new law requiring individual bishops to approve celebrations of the old Mass, and requiring newly ordained priests to receive permission to celebrate it from their bishops, in consultation with the Vatican. AP

Biden warns firms against doing business in Hong Kong

WASHINGTON

THE Biden administration issued a blanket warning on Friday to US firms about the risks of doing business in Hong Kong as China continues to clamp down on political and economic freedoms in the territory.

Four Cabinet agencies — the departments of State, Treasury, Commerce and Homeland Security — released the nine-page advisory that alerts companies about the shifting legal landscape in Hong Kong and the possibility that engaging with Hong Kong business could incur reputational and legal damages. At the same time, Treasury announced sanctions against seven Chinese officials for violating the terms of the 2020 Hong Kong Autonomy Act, which calls for asset freezes and other penalties against those who participate in the crackdown. President Joe Biden had previewed the new advisory on Thursday, telling reporters at the White House that the business environment in Hong Kong is 'deteriorating' and could worsen.

States under both the Trump and Biden administrations has determined that since the passage of a new national security law last year, Hong Kong no longer enjoys the significant autonomy from mainland China that Beijing had pledged to respect for 50 years when it assumed control of the former British colony in 1997.

As such, Hong Kong no longer enjoys preferential US trade and commercial privileges and certain officials in Hong Kong have been hit with US sanctions for their actions in cracking down on democracy. AP

Afghan forces battle Taliban at border post with Pakistan

ISLAMABAD

AFGHAN government forces battled Friday to retake a border crossing with Pakistan from Taliban insurgents, and the Reuters news agency said one of its photographers was killed in the area.The Taliban had overrun the Spin Boldak crossing earlier in the week. On Friday, witnesses on the Pakistan side of the border said they saw intense fighting and reported seeing bodies.

Reuters said Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer Danish Siddiqui, who was embedded with the Afghan special forces, was killed as the commando unit sought to recapture Spin Boldak. The agency said Siddiqui and a senior Afghan officer were killed in what they described as Taliban crossfire. "We are seeking more information, working with authorities in the region," Reuters President Michael Friedenberg and Editor-in-Chief Alessandra Galloni said in a statement. Siddiqui was an Indian national. Afghanistan's ambassador to India, Farid Mamundzay, tweeted his condolences.

The Taliban have overrun dozens of districts in Afghanistan since the start of the final phase of the withdrawal of US and NATO troops, after a 20-year military presence. The US says its withdrawal is 95% complete. The fighting at Spin Boldak was confirmed by Fawad Aman, Afghanistan's deputy defense ministry spokesman. Footage of fighters, apparently Taliban, receiving treatment in a hospital in the Pakistani border town of Chaman, was obtained.

Meanwhile, relations between Pakistan and Afghanistan are fraught with suspicion. Afghanistan routinely accuses Pakistan of giving safe haven to Afghan Taliban, whose leadership is headquartered in Pakistan's southwestern Baluchistan provincial capital of Quetta. The Chaman border crossing opposite Spin Boldak is also in Baluchistan.

Afghanistan and the United States have criticised Pakistan in the past for allowing Taliban fighters to cross into Pakistan to receive medical treatment. Nearly 2 million Afghan refugees live in Pakistan, having fled decades of war in their homeland. AP

PAK ANNOUNCES CANCELLATION OF THREE-DAY PEACE CONFERENCE

Islamabad: A three-day conference on peace in Afghanistan, which was to be hosted by Pakistan from Saturday, has been postponed till Eid al-Adha, officials said on Friday, amid trading of barbs between Kabul and Islamabad over alleged support to Taliban militants. The conference was originally scheduled from July 17 to 19 in Islamabad and was to be attended by a number of high-ranking Afghan leaders. Taliban leaders were not invited. "The Afghan Peace Conference scheduled to be held in Islamabad from 17-19 July 2021 has been postponed until after Eid Al-Adha. The new dates of the said Conference will be announced later," the Pakistan Foreign Office said. This year, Eid Al-Adha will be celebrated on July 21. The cancellation was announced as the Foreign Office rejected the remarks by Afghanistan Vice President Amrullah Saleh that the Pakistan Air Force was providing air support to Taliban militants in the border areas. PTI

WOMEN'S GROUPS CALL FOR UN PEACEKEEPING FORCE IN AFGHANISTAN

United Nations: Women's rights supporters are calling for a United Nations peacekeeping force for Afghanistan to protect hard-won gains for women over the last two decades as American and NATO forces complete their pullout from the war-torn country and a Taliban offensive gains control over more territory. Under the Taliban, women were not allowed to go to school, work outside the home or leave their house without a male escort, and many fear a Taliban takeover could take away their gains. In a letter, 140 leaders from the US, Afghanistan and other countries 'dedicated to the education and rights of women in Afghanistan' asked US President Joe Biden to call for a UN peacekeeping force 'to ensure that the cost of US military withdrawal from Afghanistan is not paid for in the lives of schoolgirls'. AP

SURVEY FINDINGS

Women are still more likely to present and report the news than appear in it

NEW ZEALAND

WOMEN are more visible in the world's news than ever before ' but they're still far from achieving parity with men. According to the just released Global Media Monitoring Project (GMMP), women made up 40% of reporters and 25% of news sources across print, TV, radio, internet news and Twitter. This was a record result for women as both news workers and sources, but still well short of equality. The report estimates it will take another 67 years to close the gender gap in news.

The sluggish progress measured in the sixth GMMP study since 1995 is hard to justify when the UN has recognised persistent gender inequality in media representation contributes to the social, economic and political marginalisation of women and girls.

The GMMP is the world's largest study of gender portrayal in the news. The latest results are based on news coverage from 116 countries on September 29 2020. Designed to be a snapshot of an ordinary news day, taken once every five years, the latest study captured more than 30,000 stories, a quarter of which were related to Covid-19.

Promisingly, Aotearoa New Zealand performs better than the global average on gender balance. Record proportions of reporters and presenters were women (68%) and appeared in stories as sources (33%). The 2020 results are an improvement on 2010 and 2015, when New Zealand stagnated while women's media visibility increased in many other countries.

However, in New Zealand and around the world, women are still more likely to present and report the news than to appear in it.

Media monitoring over the past 25 years shows New Zealand performs well when there are female political leaders and political news dominates the daily news agenda. In 2000, when Helen Clark was prime minister, New Zealand even led the world in the proportion of women political news sources, boosting the overall results.

From 2005 to 2015, though, the country lagged behind global averages. The 2020 results clearly reflect the monitoring day falling during an election campaign featuring women as leaders of the two main political parties.

In other positive findings, women made up roughly half of the academic expert and activist sources in 2020. Much of New Zealand's economic news was reported by women, focused on employment, and included women's personal experiences.

But it's women's invisibility in sports news that continues to erode media equality in New Zealand, a pattern unchanged from earlier studies despite less sport being played during the pandemic.

On monitoring day, just 17% of sports sources were female. The sports segment on Newshub's 6pm bulletin did not include a single female presenter, reporter or source. The channel's announcement of the cricket summer schedule neglected the women's game altogether.

In contrast, the male reporter who covered the same story for TVNZ's 1 News included details on women's fixtures and interviewed White Ferns captain Sophie Devine.

While many media observers have argued that more women working in journalism will improve coverage of women and gender issues, the New Zealand findings offer mixed support for this optimism. The Conversation

Says may not achieve profitability as intense competition, regulatory hurdles, Covid impact to hit biz in near term

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

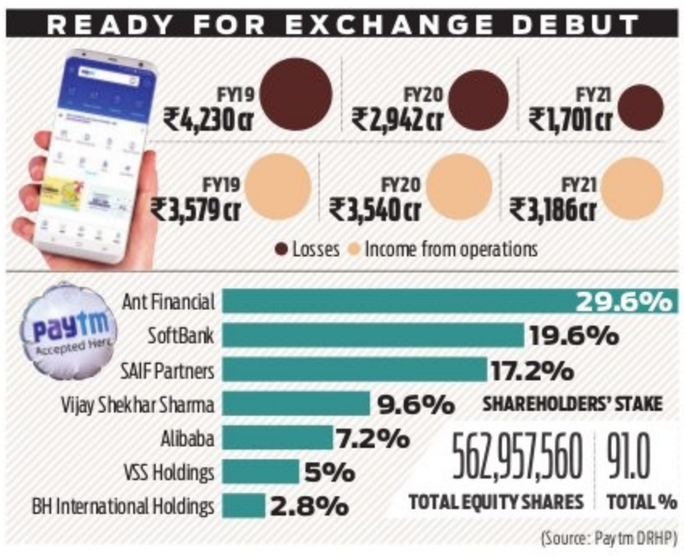
INCREASING competition, regulatory hurdles, Covid impact and marketing spends may hit the near-term profitability of Paytm even as the company eyes listing on the domestic stock exchanges at an all-time high issue size of ₹16,600 crore (nearly $2.2. billion).

"We have a history of net losses, we anticipate increasing operating expenses in the future, and we may not be able to achieve and maintain profitability," Paytm said in its draft red herring prospectus (DRHP) filed with the securities exchange board of India (SEBI) on Friday.

The IPO slated to be launched during the festive season later this year will put behind some traditional energy, fuel companies like Coal India(₹15,475-cr IPO) and Reliance Power (₹11,700-cr IPO) behind it, essentially signaling a transition of economy from oil to data.

Paytm will debut on the stock exchanges at a valuation of nearly $30 billion, almost double than its earlier $16-billion valuation. The ₹16,600-crore IPo will comprise a fresh issue of equity shares worth ₹8,300 crore and an Offer of sale by its existing shareholders aggregating to another ₹8,300 crore.

Almost all the key shareholders including founder Vijay Shekhar Sharma, Softbank , China's Ant Financial group, Alibaba, SAIF partners, are reducing their stakes whereas business magnate Ratan Tatas fund and other minority stakeholders may exit the company fully. The company is also looking to raise ₹2,000 crore (nearly $250 million) in a pre-IPO round from various investors. Sharma, Rata Tata along with Hong Kong-based venture capital fund SAIF Partners will have the meaty returns from the IPO with their equity shares acquisition prices lowest amongst all the shareholders, as per the filings reviewed by TNIE.



Will losses be the concern?

With the new-age tech companies lining up before the regulators for going public, their balance sheets with annual losses have invited attention.

Paytm said in its draft filing that it doesn't anticipate profitability in near future in the face of heated competition in its payments business (which contributes 52 % of the total revenues), increased expenses on marketing, promotions, Covid's impact on Indian economy ,furthering investment in technology infrastructure and hiring.

With a bouqet of services from payments, e-commerce, insurance, gaming to lending, Vijay Shekhar Sharma's plan to get millions of Indians to transact digitally is also likely to hit regulatory hurdles, which as per the company prospectus may hit the business. Paytm is also wary of the investments and acquisitions being made by its rivals Google, Walmart and Amazon in the payments space, as indicated in the company's draft paper, that could bring down its market share.

BOJ CUTS JAPAN GROWTH FORECAST

The Bank of Japan (BoJ) cut this fiscal year's growth forecast on Friday as new emergency curbs to combat the Covid-19 pandemic hurt consumption, reinforcing expectations that it will lag global counterparts in dialing back its massive stimulus. In fresh quarterly projections released, the BoJ said it expects the economy to expand 3.8% in the current fiscal year ending in March 2022, down from 4% projected in April. But it revised up its growth forecast for next fiscal year to 2.7% from 2.4% on expectations that consumption will pick up as vaccinations accelerate. It also released an outline of its new scheme aimed at boosting funding for activities combating climate change, which will offer banks long-term loans at zero interest. The climate scheme will be launched this year and last until fiscal 2030. It revised up its inflation forecasts to 0.6% from 0.1% citing energy and commodities prices.

PAKISTAN MOVES TO BRING CRYPTOCURRENCY BOOM OUT OF THE DARK

Pakistan has seen a boom in trading and mining cryptocurrency, with interest proliferating in thousands of views of related videos on social media and transactions on online exchanges. From housewives looking to earn a side income to wealthy investors wanting to buy cryptomining hardware, many barely understand traditional stock markets but all are eager to cash in. While cryptocurrency is not illegal in Pakistan, the global money laundering watchdog, the Financial Action Task Force (FATF), has called on the government to better regulate the industry. Pakistan is on the FATF's grey list of countries it monitors for failing to check terror financing and money laundering. In response, the federal government has set up a committee to study cryptocurrency regulation, which includes observers from the FATF, federal ministers, and heads of the country's intelligence agencies. Despite the challenges, Pakistan's crypto boom shows no signs of stopping.

TAIWAN JUNE EXPORT ORDERS SEEN UP FOR 16TH STRAIGHT MONTH: POLL

Taiwan's export orders likely rose in June for the 16th consecutive month, a Reuters poll showed, buoyed by strong sustained demand for technology products during lockdowns as millions of people work from home and take classes remotely. The median forecast from a poll of 10 economists expects export orders to jump 29.45% from the year-ago period. Forecasts for growth ranged from 19% to 32.4%. Taiwan's export orders are a leading indicator of demand for hi-tech gadgets and Asia's exports, and typically lead actual exports by two to three months. The island's May export orders, a bellwether of global technology demand, jumped 34.5% year-on-year to $52.29 billion. Taiwan's manufacturers, such as the world's largest contract chipmaker Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co Ltd, are a key part of the global supply chain for technology giants including Apple Inc. The data for June will be released on Tuesday.

₹3,497-CRORE DEAL

Reliance Retail to acquire majority stake in Just Dial

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RELIANCE Retail Ventures Ltd (RRVL), the retail arm of Reliance Industries Limited is acquiring a majority stake of 66.95% in local search company Just Dial for ₹3,497 crore in a move that will strengthen its local commerce and payments play.

According to the definitive agreements signed between the companies, Reliance Retail will hold 40.95% stake in the company and would make an open offer to acquire up to 26% in accordance with takeover regulations set by market regulator Sebi. The transaction is subject to shareholder and other customary closing conditions and approvals.

Just Dial, on its part, said that its board has approved raising up to ₹ 2,164.8 crore through issuance of shares on a preferential basis to RRVL. The board has approved the preferential allotment of 2.12 crore equity shares (equivalent to 25.33% post preferential share capital) at price per share of ₹1,022.25. Also, Reliance Retail Ventures Ltd has acquired 1.31 crore equity shares from VSS Mani (equivalent to 15.62% post preferential share capital) at a price per share of ₹1,020.00. VSS Mani will continue to lead Justdial as MD and CEO, the press release from Reliance Retail said.

The capital infused by Reliance Retail will help drive the growth and expansion of Just Dial into a comprehensive local listing. Justdial would expand discovery on its platform and enhance transactions for millions of products and services. These investments will leverage Justdial's existing database of 30.4 million listings and its existing consumer traffic of 129.1 million quarterly unique users (as of March 31, 2021).

Govt mulls Niti Aayog's role in consolidation of UCBs

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

IN order to ensure better management of urban cooperative banks, the Centre is planning aggressive consolidation drive for the urban cooperative and is considering roping in Niti Aayog for it.

According to the sources in the finance ministry, the government in consultation with the RBI is planning to reduce the number of urban cooperative banks by one third in next few years.

"Post PMC Bank crisis, finance ministry is working closely with the RBI on regulating Urban Cooperative Bank. There are many banks who are having finacial stress. The RBI and finance ministry has initiated many reforms but still there is need to aggressively consolidation by merging them into larger entity. The central ministry is considering taking help of Niti Aayog for the purpose," a senior official told TNIE.

The official added that NITI Aayog is expected to give the first list by September this year. "The process once initiated, by September there will be list of first slot of UCBs ready, which can be merged or privatised," the official added.

By the end of last financial year, there were 1,539 UCBs and 97,006 rural cooperative banks, with a depositor base of 8.6 crore.

The Reserve Bank of India, on Wednesday, issued a draft, proposed changes in rules for members of primary urban cooperative banks and it also proposed to tweak the fund raising norm for the UCBs. They had already tweaked the rules on the appointment of managing directors and chief risk officers while they increased instances of imposing fines for shortcomings and mandating stricter reporting norms.

After the RBI was given greater regulatory powers over these lenders, it has tightened noose over cooperative banks.

Aggressive drive in consultation with RBI

- Till FY20, there were 1,539 UCBs and 97,006 rural cooperative banks, with 8.6 cr depositors
- Govt plans to cut the number of urban cooperative banks by one third in next few years
- RBI imposed penalties on 51 cooperative banks till June 30 this year, compared with 23 in 2020

Zomato IPO subscribed by 38.25 times on closing

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE ₹9,375-crore mega initial public offering (IPO) of foodtech giant Zomato received a blockbuster response from the market. According to data available on the exchanges, the 3-day IPO got subscribed 38.25 times by the end of July 16, its last day of bidding. It attracted bids for 2,751.25 crore shares as compared to the issue size of 71.9 crore shares.

Zomato's subscription rate is higher than that of SBI Card, the previous big IPO of recent times. SBI Card's 10,335-crore issue, that came out last year in March, was subscribed 26.22 times.

The portion reserved for retail investors got subscribed by 7.45 times while portion reserved for qualified institutional buyers (QIB) was subscribed 51.79 times. The portion set aside for the non-institutional investors (NII) was subscribed 32.96 times. However, the proportion reserved for employees was not fully subscribed as it received bids for only 40,50,345 shares as against reserved allocation of 60 lakh shares. Zomato's IPO was subscribed almost five times on the second day and 1.05 times at the end of the first day of the issue.

Now that the IPO is closed, market is eagerly waiting listing gains the IPO will give once it hit the bourses, and how the share would perform in initial weeks. Zomato's performance in the market is also expected to have a big impact on a host of internet based startups that are going public soon. Most brokerages had given subscribe rating to the IPO while few recommended clients with high risk appetite to go for the same as the company is yet to report profit.

SALES UP 31%

Manufacturing firms saw strong Q4 FY21: RBI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

MANUFACTURING companies showed strong revenue growth in the fourth quarter of 2020-21 as sales of 1,633 manufacturing companies surged by 31% year-on-year during the quarter as compared with 7.4% growth in the previous quarter, according to data released by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

The rise in sales was broad based, and was supported by favourable base effect as well as price effect, the RBI said.

Sales of IT sector firms accelerated to 6.4% Y-o-Y in the fourth quarter of 2020-21 while those of non-IT services companies recorded a marginal growth after declining in the previous three quarters. The improvement in sales on non-IT service company was largely led by trading companies.

Though manufacturing companies increased their spending on raw materials, they still reported growth in operating profits on the back of higher rise in sales compared to expenditures. Manufacturing companies saw an average 70% increase in operating profit and 31% increase in raw material cost.

Operating profits of services sector companies (both IT and non-IT) also expanded during the quarter.

While employee cost for manufacturing companies increased by 5.4% year-on-year during fourth quarter of 2020-21, non-IT (non-financial) services companies saw a contraction of almost 9% in staff cost. Employee cost of IT Sector companies grew by 6% during the quarter.

OYO gets ₹660-mn term loan from global investors

PTI @ New Delhi

HOSPITALITY firm OYO on Friday said it has raised TLB funding of ₹660 million (nearly ₹4,920 crore) from global institutional investors and the capital will be used for paring debt and other business investments.

The offer was oversubscribed by 1.7 times and the company received commitments of close to ₹1 billion from leading institutional investors, OYO said in a statement.

TLB refers to a tranche of senior secured syndicated credit facility from global institutional investors, it added.

"The company will utilise these funds to retire its past debts, strengthen the balance sheet and other business purposes including investment in product technology," it said.

Commenting on the fundraise, OYO Group Chief Financial Officer Abhishek Gupta said, "we are delighted by the response to OYO's maiden TLB capital raise that was oversubscribed by leading global institutional investors... This is a testament to the strength and success of OYO's products at scale, our strong fundamentals and high-value potential." He further said, "OYO is well capitalised and on the path of achieving profitability. Our two largest markets have demonstrated profitability at the slightest signs of industry recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic." OYO said the deal was "upsized and increased by 10 per cent to ₹660 million, the company's fundamentals yielded strong interest from investors despite the virus surge." JP Morgan, Deutsche Bank, and Mizuho Securities served as the lead arrangers for this financing, it added.

The hospitality chain said ratings agencies Fitch and Moody's have rated its senior secured loan 'B' and 'B3' (stable outlook), respectively, on the back of its "sound business model and resilient financial profile with significant potential upside".

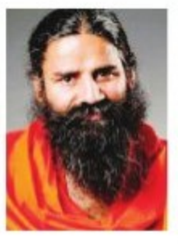
WE PLAN TO RAISE RUCHI SOYA'S EXPORTS TO ₹1K CR IN THREE YEARS: RAMDEV

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

UNFAZED by the controversies surrounding its takeover of Ruchi Soya and tax exemptions to its research foundation, Baba Ramdev-led Patanjali Ayurveda has mapped out aggressive growth plans for Ruchi Soya, which it acquired last year through the bankruptcy process.

These include exports boost, hiring celebrities to endorse the brand and transforming the commodity company to a fast-moving consumer goods company. Work has already begun to double exports revenue to ₹1,000 crore over the next 3 years and Ruchi Soya will be a debt-free company "in not more than two years", Baba Ramdev, non-executive director, Ruchi Soya told TNIE in an interaction on Friday.



"We have big plans for Ruchi Soya in the coming days and have taken it as a challenge to turn around the company and run a listed corporate entity despite all the criticisms. We are already exporting to over 36 countries now and we now see an export revenue of ₹1,000 crore achievable in three years," Baba Ramdev said. As on March 31, 2021, the company export revenue was ₹404.98 crore. Patanjali will also focus on promoting natural and healthy oil in the market and plans to take a major step towards large-scale palm oil plantation and maximise production of mustard oil in India, which will help save foreign currency worth ₹2.5 lakh crore, he added.

For the first time, the company will also rope in celebrities for Ruchi Soya as well as Patanjali. "We are in the last leg of signing contracts with one sports person and another Bollywood celebrity, with a huge fan following, to promote our brands," he added without disclosing the names.

On tax exemptions, he said, "We have donated crores for scientific research, and we are happy that the government has recognised the efforts of the trust which will be beneficial not just for our company but for the entire nation. The tax exemption for five years will give a boost to our future donations."

Fedex invests $100 million in Delhivery

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

GLOBAL logistics firm Fedex has invested$ 100 million in IPO-bound unicorn Delhivery at an undisclosed valuation.

The equity investment is Fedex's strategic move to strengthen its operations in India and compete with a major domestic rival, Bluedart.

Delhivery earlier this year raised $ 277 million from new investors Fidelty Management and GIC Singapore at a $3 billion valuation.

Raj Subramaniam, President and Chief Operating Officer of FedEx Corp, said that India is a strategic priority for the company. "This strategic alliance will support our long-term vision to grow our India business and serve customers seeking to expand in or enter the Indian market, as well as provide opportunities to develop product and technology solutions together with Delhivery for the benefit of our customers," he added.

As a part of the deal, FedEx will focus on international export and import services to and from India, and Delhivery will, in addition to FedEx, sell FedEx Express international products and services in the India market and provide pick-up and delivery services across India.

India flags concern on oil prices with Saudi, UAE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Newly appointed Union petroleum minister Hardeep Singh Puri has raised India's concerns over high oil prices with top crude exporters Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and United Arab Emirates (UAE).

Brent crude oil prices are currently trading at $73 per barrel, having fallen from $77 over the past ten days due to increased prospects for higher supply—both due to a reports of a compromise between OPEC members and increasing production in the United States.

However, compared to the $52 per barrel in January this year, crude oil prices have increased by nearly 40% this year alone. And since governments have not yet reversed earlier fuel tax hikes made during the first wave of the pandemic last summer (when global lockdowns caused an oil price crash), retail petrol and diesel prices have crossed the ₹100-per-litre-mark in many places across India.

Puri communicated India's concerns through phone calls to Minister of Energy of Saudi Arabia on Friday and UAE petroleum minister on July 14.

Nagal makes Olympic cut, to pair with Bopanna in doubles

Sumit Nagal on Friday made the cut for the men's singles event of the Tokyo Olympics as large-scale withdrawals pushed him inside the qualification mark. The AITA promptly paired him with Rohan Bopanna for the men's doubles competition by withdrawing Divij Sharan's nomination.

The steady Graham Reid, in charge of the men's team since April 2019, and a rapidly improving women's team, give both hockey outfits a reason to be optimistic ahead of Tokyo challenge

OLD CHARM, NEW HOPE

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

IN one of the first full-length interviews Graham Reid had given after taking charge as senior men's coach of the Indian hockey team, he was clear in what was expected of him and what he set out to do. "I want to take Indian hockey back to where it belongs," he had told this daily while sitting in a coffee shop in Bhubaneswar in June 2019. While Hockey India (HI) liked what they heard, they demanded something more measured. Bring us stability.

While the next three weeks will give the perfect indication as to whether the Australian has taken Indian hockey back to where it belongs, he has already brought in a stable environment. There is no constant churn, the players he has selected for the Games have been with the core probables at the Sports Authority of India (SAI) campus for at least a few years. Crucially, though, Reid himself is still here, in a job that's the proverbial poisoned chalice.

There is no other job like that of the 'India's senior men's hockey coach' in the sport. It pays extremely well. But, pressure wise, it's extremely high.

Sample this: Reid is the first person to keep this posting for more than 26 months this century. Even if some of that is down to an absence of blue-ribbon standalone FIH events for a trigger friendly HI to consider his position, the main reason why Reid has kept his posting is simple. He secured India's berth at the Olympics with a minimum of fuss apart from winning a multiple matches against elite opposition in the Pro League in 2020: the biggest FIH event if you discount the World Cup and Olympics.

India's men's hockey problem is an open secret. When the going gets tough, they refuse to get going. It's in present tense because they haven't played in enough high-quality ties in the last two years. However, the signs under Reid have been encouraging. The one reason why India are World No 4 is because they have shown character to rescue lost causes.

A few numbers to support this (only Pro League matches since January 2020). Out of the six matches they won (including three via a shootout), they went behind four times, including twice in as many days against Australia. However, they fought back rather than throwing in the towel. Whenever they used to trail in big games, they lost shape in hunt of goals. This team under Reid don't do that. Reid has also taught the team to win against the biggest nations: they have beaten Belgium, Australia, Netherlands and Argentina in the last 18 months.

That is why they are quietly confident ahead of the Olympics. There is no talk of medalling, not yet anyway. What they are confident is of not just holding their own but competing against the four biggest teams: Belgium, Australia, Argentina and Netherlands. Two — Australia and Argentina — of them are in the same group.

****

When the EuroHockey Nations Championship began on June 5, Sjoerd Marijne was glued to his TV set. It gave the women's coach the rare opportunity to look at other teams' structure, tactics and players during the pandemic. "I'm watching the EuroNations. It would be great if we also had these matches. But yeah, I can think days about this but it's not going to happen," he had told this daily then. For all the preparations by the men's and women's hockey teams, there is no getting around what a disaster it has been for the teams. They have had to cancel exposure trips and Pro League matches because of the coronavirus situation. While other teams have played practice as well as competitive matches in the last few months, both the Indian sides have been confined to home, playing selection matches against themselves. It's not ideal, but like the Dutchman says, 'it is what it is'.

One thing that's for sure is that this is a much better side than the one that turned up at Rio. In Brazil, the women's team, playing at that level for the first time in 36 years, scored thrice, conceded 19, drew one and finished last. They have been on a journey since then. It's included a silver at the Asian Games, a quarterfinals at the World Cup, a fourth-place finish at the Commonwealth Games and a heart-stopping win over the US side that saw them qualify.

PLENTY OF OPTIMISIM

A medal has proved elusive for India since winning gold in the 1980 Moscow Olympics, but many believe that India have the best chance in many years at securing a podium finish this time. The men are placed in Pool A alongside defending champions Argentina, World No 1 Australia, New Zealand, Spain and hosts Japan. While they have shown in the recent past that they can beat the top teams in the world, including Argentina in the FIH Pro League in April, it remains to be seen whether a squad that features 10 Olympic debutants can raise its game when it matters most.

SEEKING NEXT BIG STEP

The women's team has made giant strides since finishing bottom of the table in the 2016 Rio Olympics. But it is time to show evidence of that and take the next big step in their evolution. The girls will have their task cut out as they are drawn in Group A alongside defending champs Great Britain, Netherlands, Germany, Ireland and South Africa. Barring South Africa, all the other teams in the group have a higher ranking. Since making the cut for the Olympics in 2019, the women have only scored nine goals in 11 matches. If they are to advance to the latter stages, they will have to find a way to be more incisive going forward.

RYOGOKU KOKUGIKAN

PATHS TO VICTORY

HIGH EXPECTATIONS

Amit Panghal goes into the Tokyo Olympics as World No 1 in the men's flyweight (52kg) category. Among the nine Indian boxers who will compete in Tokyo, Panghal is the only pugilist to receive top billing by the IOC's Boxing Task Force. Naturally then, the 25-year-old from Haryana carries high expectations on his shoulders. The 2018 Asian Games gold medallist will have to be wary of Uzbekistan's Shakhobidin Zoirov, considering that Panghal has lost all his three meetings with the World No 5.

MARY EYEING TOP SHOW

Among the women, a lot of the focus is bound to be on veteran MC Mary Kom. The 38-year-old from Manipur has everything possible barring an Olympic gold. So she'll be determined to use all her experience and go all the way. She won silver in the Asian Boxing Championship in May, but it remains to be seen whether she can better her feat of winning bronze at the 2012 London Olympics.

India and Pakistan placed in same group for T20 World Cup

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

MAINTAINING the recent trend, India have been clubbed together with Pakistan in the Super 12's stage of the T20 World Cup which will be hosted by the BCCI in the UAE and Oman from October 17 to November 14. The International Cricket Council (ICC) announced the groupings for the event — which will be the first global cricket after the pandemic postponed the 2020 edition — in Muscat on Friday.

And as expected, thanks to the rankings as of March 20, 2021, India and Pakistan have found themselves in the same group. The two were kept in different groups for the 2020 edition, which was originally scheduled to be held in Australia, but was postponed to 2022 because of the pandemic. While the groupings for both Round 1 and Super 12's stage have been announced, the schedule is likely to be finalised once the IPL dates are out.

With the IPL preceding the T20 World Cup in the UAE, the BCCI and the Emirates Cricket Board (ECB) are making efforts to ensure the pitches are not tired by the time the ICC event begins. The BCCI decided to include Oman as a co-host for the event specifically for this reason as it would provide Dubai and Abu Dhabi grounds adequate rest before the Super 12's stage. In Round 1 matches which will be held in Muscat and Sharjah, the eight teams have been divided into two groups. Group A comprises Sri Lanka, Ireland, The Netherlands and Namibia. Bangladesh, Oman, Scotland and Papa New Guinea make Group B. The top two from each group will make it to the Super 12.

And in the Super 12 stage, the teams have been divided into two groups again with defending champions West Indies, England, Australia, and South Africa joined by Group A winners and Group B runners-up in Group 1. Group 2 will include India, Pakistan, New Zealand, Afghanistan, Group B winners, and Group A runners-up.

"Given the disruption caused by Covid-19, we selected the cutoff date as close as possible to the event to ensure we were able to include the maximum amount of cricket in the rankings which determine the groups. There is no doubt we will witness some highly competitive cricket when the event gets underway in just three months. There are some great matchups offered by the groups and it starts to bring the event to life for our fans as our first multi-team event since the onset of the global pandemic draws closer," ICC acting CEO Geoff Allardice said.

As far as India goes, they find themselves in probably the toughest of the two groups. With the pitches in the UAE expected to be on the slower side, their batting unit will be up against teams that have some of the best tweakers in the business. It can even get worse, if Sri Lanka qualify from Round 1 as Group A runners-up, which means all the sub-continent teams will be comprised in the same group, provided Bangladesh makes it to the Super 12's as Group B winners.

Round 1

Group A: Sri Lanka, Ireland, Netherlands, Namibia. Group B: Bangladesh, Scotland, Papua New Guinea, Oman.

Super 12's

Group 1: England, Australia, South Africa, West Indies, A1, B2 Group 2: India, Pakistan, New Zealand, Afghanistan, A2, B1.

Ugandan weightlifter goes missing in Japan

AGENCIES @ Tokyo

A UGANDAN weightlifter disappeared from Olympic training camp in Japan, leaving behind a note saying he wanted to find work, Japanese officials said on Friday. Authorities were searching for Julius Ssekitoleko, who failed to show up for a coronavirus test and was not in his hotel room, host city Izumisano said in a statement.

Ugandan sports officials said the athlete had recently found out he would not be able to compete at the Games because of a quota system. A city official told late on Friday that a note had been found in Ssekitoleko's hotel room in which the athlete said he wanted to work in Japan and asked that his belongings be sent to his family in Uganda. Surveillance cameras at a local train station appeared to show the athlete, who was believed to have bought a ticket to the city of Nagoya, officials added, though it was not immediately clear if he had travelled there or not.

Wrestling trio to leave Russia for Tokyo Games on July 29

Weightlifting coach Vijay Sharma and Mirabai Chanu at the Games Village in Tokyo on Friday. The duo is divided by a glass barrier as a precautionary measure against Covid

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

INDIAN wrestlers — Bajrang Punia (65 kg), Ravi Dahiya (57kg) and Deepak Punia (86kg) — training in Russia will fly out for Tokyo on July 29 and reach there next day. Earlier, they were planning to leave the country either on July 26 or 27 but the delay has apparently been caused due to unavailability of accredited Covid-19 testing centres at their base Vladikavkaz.

As per the playbook issued by the IOC, the participants have to take two Covid-19 tests on two separate days within 96 hours of their flight to Japan from an accredited lab. One of these two tests has to be taken within 72 hours of departure.

"The three wrestlers, their coaches and support staff will reach Moscow on July 25. They will take two tests there at the accredited lab before flying out for Tokyo on July 29. They will land in Japan the next day," a Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) official told this daily. The wrestling competition is scheduled to begin on August 1. It is also learnt that Ravi and Deepak along with other support staff have to participate at the Games without taking their second doses of the Covishield vaccine.

Meanwhile, the women wrestlers — Seema Bisla (50kg), Anshu Malik (57kg) and Sonam Malik (62kg) — who are training in Haryana's Sonepat, and their support staff will leave the country on July 26. Vinesh Phogat (53kg), who is training in Hungary, will also fly out for Tokyo on the same day.

Mirabai reaches Tokyo

Weightlifter Mirabai Chanu, her coach Vijay Sharma and two other members of support staff reached Tokyo on Friday afternoon. They were training in the USA and left the country on Thursday. "It took us around three hours to complete formalities at the airport. We headed straight to Games Village from the airport," Sharma said. Seeded second in her weight category (49kg), Mirabai will be action on July 24.

BATTING FOR SUCCESS

Shaw should not sacrifice his attacking play: Raman

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

ONE has been hearing Prithvi Shaw's name for quite some time now, but it is rather surprising that the opener has only played eight internationals (five Tests and three ODIs). There is no doubt about the talent he possesses, but things have not gone according to plan on and off the field with injuries also playing a part. Take for instance the year 2020, where he failed to deliver in international cricket and the Indian Premier League as well.

Questions about his technique became a subject of discussion too. His sparkling debut ton in 2018 looked like a distant memory. But he bounced back in the domestic season earlier in the year, scoring 827 runs in eight Vijay Hazare matches. He followed that up with an impressive 308 runs in the yet to be completed IPL 2021 . He looked assured while batting and the element of confidence was back in his game. More importantly, his attacking flair and instinct was still intact, which makes him dangerous.

With the kind of form the 21-year old has shown, eyes will be on the Mumbaikar in the upcoming limited overs series against Sri Lanka, starting Sunday with the first ODI in Colombo. He is only going to benefit from the soothing presence of head coach for the tour, Rahul Dravid, who has worked with him in the past during the India A tours. "I expect Prithvi to come (into the Sri Lanka series) having analysed what his strengths are in his game. I would also expect him to live for the day, not think too far ahead nor too back," said former India opener WV Raman in a virtual interaction. Raman is also aware of the things that were said about the youngster when he was out of form. But, Raman wants the player to disregard those things and not sacrifice his attacking game. "People cannot expect consistency straight away. It took some time for (Virender) Sehwag to work things out. But Prithvi has to get on with the way he knows how to bat. He should not dilute or sort of sacrifice the advantage that he has of being an attacking batsman and match-winner for the team."

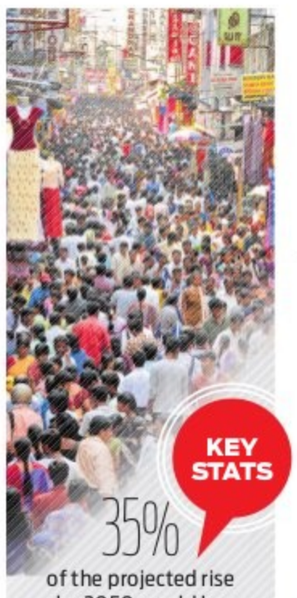
INTERESTING KIWI EXPERIMENT

In 2018, a UN report claimed that by 2050 at least 2.5 billion more people globally would be living in cities. Among a host of infra needed to support this spurt, the importance of clean air cannot be stressed enough. This is where New Zealand's experiment with eco-sanctuary Zealandia, not to be confused with the eponymous continent, appears as a worthy example



KEY STATS

35% of the projected rise by 2050 would be shared by India, China and Nigeria

THE REPORT SAYS

PROTECTING THE ENDANGERED

Now that we have broached the subject of, among other things, mega cities requiring clean air to support the massive surge in urban population, the question remains: Is there any sustainable model that can be replicated? And for answers, let's make a trip to a place that is under what's down under: New Zealand

An ecosanctuary in Wellington may prove to be the model all future cities might take a leaf out of to balance growth and health. Named Zealandia, the ecosanctuary is home to: Native bird species

40

DOZENS

Of critically endangered reptiles, frogs and invertebrates, as well as hundreds of native plants and trees. What make Zealandia special is that it is not confined to some uninhabited island, but in a valley on the outskirts of the city

ZEALANDIA

Zealandia was known as Karori in the 19th century, where the indigenous population farmed

STAGGERED GROWTH BETTER THAN BEING STATIC

While it may not be viable to adopt the system in its entirety, what can be easily done is to take baby steps, and at a later date when all that is needed fall into place, just join the dots. Here's what can be done:

Stagger the vegetation growth. Instead of earmarking a large tract, start small, with small pockets. Increase biodiversity, Make nature conservation and wildlife awareness part of education curricula to motivate the next generation

AN ARMY OF CONSERVATIONISTS

It is by educating the next gen that Wellington has an army of volunteers to

- Everyday check on the fence
- Feed the birds
- Check on trees
- Keep a tab on predators
- Educate the next generation

Philippine health officials on Friday warned of a possible surge in infections as the first locally transmitted cases of the highly-contagious Delta variant were recorded and more than three million people went into lockdown

EU disease agency predicts 5-fold rise in cases by Aug 1

ECDC says the Delta strain will drive spike in cases in 20 and rise in deaths in 9 countries

COVID

STOCKHOLM: The EU's disease agency said on Friday it was predicting a sharp increase in coronavirus cases, with nearly five times as many new infections by August 1. The expected rise in cases was linked to the highly-transmissible Delta variant, first identified in India, along with the relaxing of measures in European countries.

In its coverage area, which includes the EU, Norway and Iceland, the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC) expected to see 420 cases per 100,000 inhabitants for the week ending on August 1, up from just under 90 last week. By the week after, the number of new cases is expected to rise above 620 per 100,000 inhabitants.

"The current continuing deterioration of the epidemiological situation in many countries is expected to continue given the rapid increase in the Delta variant," the ECDC said in the report. Hospitalisations and deaths are also expected, although at a slower pace, according to the ECDC, thanks to the rollout of vaccination campaigns.

Currently, hospitalisations remain stable in most countries but the number of deaths associated with Covid-19 is expected to exceed 10 per 1,000,000 inhabitants again, compared with 6.8 last week, the agency noted. The ECDC said it was forecasting increasing cases in 20 countries and increased deaths in nine: Cyprus, Greece, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Portugal, Slovenia and Spain.

While these figures are projection the level is in line with that seen during the peaks in the second half of 2020 and April 2021, according to the EU agency's data. Between July 5 and 11, the number of new cases in the EU jumped by over 60%, increasing for the second week in a row, due to "relaxation of non-pharmaceutical interventions and increasing spread of Delta variant" first detected in India. Last month, the Stockholm-based agency warned that the Delta variant was on track to account for 90% of new cases by August-end.

50% hospitalisations develop complications

As many as one in every two people hospitalised with severe Covid-19 go on to develop other health complications, according to comprehensive new research released on Friday. Authors of the study pulished in the medical journal Lancet said their findings showed a "profound" short- and long-term health impact on Covid-19 patients as well as on health and care services. Data from more than 70,000 hospital patients across more than 300 British hospitals was collected for the research. It found that the most common health complications were problems with patients' kidneys and lungs, but neurological and cardiovascular conditions were also widely reported.

At 319 terabits/sec, data transfer speed records smashed

TECH

TOKYO: Japanese researchers have achieved record breaking data transfer speeds through a long 1,864 mile optical cable, reaching a lightning fast 319 terabits per second. This is fast enough that you could transfer 10,000 high definition movies at about 4 Gigabytes each in just one second, although won't be available to the average home.

This sort of technology is used in the back-end networks of broadband providers and then split up among hundreds or thousands of customers. This new record smashes the previous best speed for data transfer over a long distance of 172 terabits per second, also set by a team from Japan's National Institute of Information and Communications (NICT) in Tokyo.

The new system is compatible with existing infrastructure, meaning networks could be easily upgraded, as the cable is the same size, the team explained. Researchers say these sort of speeds will be necessary for back-end-infrastructure as services place ever greater demands on internet infrastructure, including through faster speeds from 5G networks, as well as the internet of things and streaming.

To achieve the remarkable speed they took a coupled four-core optical fibre cable, channelling data long four optical fibre tubes rather than a single tube as is normal. This reduces signal distortion over long distances, and the new technique is similar to the previous record breaking system, but with one more core. Data is then transmitted using 'wavelength-division multiplexing', a technology that takes the data beamed by a laser and splits it into 552 channels.

This is then sent down the four optical fibre cores over the 1,864 mile stretch of fibre optic cable, with an amplifier in the capable every 43.5 miles. The amplifiers boost the strength of the signal to keep transmission loss over a long distance at a minimum.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Antidote to heart attacks

RESEARCH

A group of Australia-based scientists are looking to venom from a deadly native spider to save lives, by halting the harmful effects of heart attacks. Researchers used venom from a type of funnel-web spider in a drug they hope can soon be taken to human trials. University of Queensland scientist Nathan Palpant said Friday the venom helped stop the body sending a "death signal" after a heart attack. "After a heart attack, blood flow is reduced, resulting in a lack of oxygen to heart muscle," Palpant said. "The lack of oxygen causes the cell environment to become acidic, which send a message for heart cells to die. "Despite decades of research, no one has been able to develop a drug that stops this death signal," he pointed out.

Hawaii teenager recycles to help students reach college

CONSERVATION

HAWAII: In the beginning, Genshu Price recycled for his own sake — his father said it would be a good way to save money for his college tuition. But then, he came up with grander idea: Why not recycle thousands of bottles and cans to help other students in Hawaii reach their college dream."That way, it would be able to help a lot more local families, help a lot more people throughout the generations," Price said.

The 13-year-old from Oahu launched Bottles4College three years ago. The goal is to collect and recycle 2 to 4 million cans and bottles annually to fund college tuition for up to two students. Price said his project "gained traction" during the coronavirus pandemic.

"People saw this as a way to give an opportunity back to local families, especially since the pandemic has hit everyone so hard, especially the kids," he said. At the same time, they would protect the environment and keep their island clean.

His mother, Maria Price, recalled how he began going around to beaches, Little League baseball games and parks, "just asking people if they're done with their drinks," to collect their bottles and cans, which he sorted with his parents' help. Since then, he has collected more than 100,000 bottles and cans and has received support from businesses and schools, setting up drop-off depots at places like Mililani Uka Elementary School, the Kualoa Ranch nature reserve and S.W. King Intermediate School, which he attends.

"Hawaii already has very high living costs. Covid made that even harder," he said. "I want to give a way for students who may not ... have been able to go to college by themselves." Bottles4College, he said, is based on four pillars: education, environment, community and lifestyle. "We're helping the environment by recycling," he said. "We're helping education by providing scholarship funds for Hawaii kids and inspiring them to want to get a good education. And then you're bringing communities together." He is also an aspiring filmmaker; he created a documentary highlighting his work. He also posts videos on YouTube, including tips on how to sort cans and bottles and encouraging others to recycle. "We still have a little bit to go to get to the place where we want to be, but it's exciting. Every can counts, it's one can or bottle at a time," he said.

Caring about others, he said, is even more important during challenging times.

TRIPPING OVER TRAVEL

Unlock 3 has turned out to be a breather for travel enthusiasts, who are indulging in camping and trekking

With the onset of the monsoon and easing of the lockdown restrictions, Bengalureans are now looking forward to quick weekend getaways.

VEDIKA MANE

TWENTY-year-old Nivedita Sahu had a different experience this time when she went camping post-lockdown. Like many people across the country, Sahu was also looking forward to getting back to normal. "I was excited about my first camp, post lockdown. Getting out of the house, travelling, seeing new faces, and making new friends was altogether a new experience. I realised that we all have a very short life and we need to enjoy it," says Sahu, a fourth-year law student from Bengaluru.

Sahu, an avid traveller makes sure that she tick marks at least one destination from her bucket list every month, however, she had put her travel plans on hold owing to the pandemic. "During the pandemic, my friend and I followed a routine to write about all the places we want to explore post lockdown, including camping. Soon after the lockdown, I started travelling and ticking off my list one-by-one," she adds.

With the onset of the monsoon and easing of the lockdown restrictions, Bengalureans are now looking forward to a quick weekend getaway. Several locations around the city and campsites are offering a quick escapade as travel agents and camp organisers are getting back to business with their innovative ideas and ensuring all safety measures.

Jatin Munvar, co-founder of Plan the Unplanned, says, "We have organised several trekking and camping events across India, including Himalayan treks. We were not able to do anything innovative during the lockdown, owing to the restrictions and guidelines by the government. But once the lockdown was lifted, we tried arranging 'workstations'. The idea was for people to travel to a particular destination and work, instead of working from home. It included them staying at the place anywhere between 7 to 15 days, working, and enjoying nature."

As people are looking for an open environment over indoor activities or something built artificially, camp organisers are witnessing an increase in the number of campers and trekkers. "As camping is an outdoor activity, it doesn't involve a lot of people cramped togethwer in one place. Owing to this, we're seeing a rise in the number of individuals who have never camped before, but now, they wish to go out and spend time amidst nature," says Amit Shetty, co-founder of Campmonk.

Another camping enthusiast, Saiba, tells CE, "I would choose camping and open environment over something built artificially. Recently, I went for my first camp post lockdowwn and it was made sure that my safety was ensured with well-sanitised toilets, disposable plates, and a limited number of individuals on the property," says the 27-year-old from Bengaluru.

To keep a track of their customers' health, organisers have created WhatsApp groups where people can update their health status. Chethan Kumar, co-founder of Monks on Wheels, makes sure to continue the WhatsApp group that they create at the beginning of the trip for at least 10 days so that people can update if they develop any symptoms post the trip which will forewarn others.

Meanwhile, Naveen Mallesh, co-founder of Trek Nomads, has started arranging camps for friends and family groups, "so they can travel in their limited circle and feel safe."

CALL OF NATURE

Bengalureans are making a beeline to natural destinations, including Jog Falls, Nandi Hills and Almatti Dam

BOSKY KHANNA

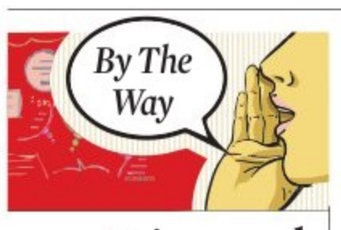
AS many are still opting for the work from home option, they are heading to natural destinations and are working en route. Some naturalists said, citizens have not yet started to explore lesser-known plans. Unlike last year's unlock period where people were looking for lesser-known places, this time, they are going to known places. Kumar Pushkar, managing director, Jungle Lodges and Resorts, says that even though people prefer Kabini, the rush this time is more to Bhadra. "This is because the destination is ideal during monsoon as it has a boat and a wildlife safari. Another reason could be that the rates are comparatively lesser. Tourists are also preferring Bandipur, K Gudi, Jog Falls, and Devbagh," he adds.

The footfall in Bannerghatta Biological Park (BBP) increased during the weekends. According to Vanashri Vipin Singh, BBP's executive director, during weekdays, the footfall was around 1,000-1,500, but during the weekend, especially on Sunday, there were around 3,000- 3,500 visitors.

"When compared to city tourism, there is a demand for natural destinations. A good footfall is being reported in Nandi Hills, Jog Falls and Almatti. The footfall in Kodagu is gradually rising and it would pick up in another 2-3 days," says Vijay Sharma, managing director, Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC). In the package tours, the demand is for Tirupati where around 160-170 tickets are being booked, Sharma adds.

After assessing the increasing footfalls over the last one week, tourism officials believe that the citizens were just waiting for the lockdown to be lifted. The tourism department officials said that locals and tourists from other cities have started booking rooms in properties that belong to the tourism department. The official is of the opinion that unlike in the past, not many from Bengaluru are travelling to longer destinations. "There is still some hesitation among people. We are now trying to win their confidence to draw tourists instead of offering new packages," the tourism official adds.

Tourists are also heading to Bandipur, Jog Falls, and Devbagh



Being vocal

Many actors from the Kannada industry have expressed their support about conferring veteran actor Anant Nag the Padma award. Adyaksha actor Sharan has also joined the campaign. He took to Twitter and wrote, "I stand by this campaign of nominating our pride, Ananthnag sir, for the honorable Padmashree award. I came across a saying, "Padmashree deserves Ananthnag", and I completely agree with it. (sic)"

Happy Birthday, BFC!

The birthday week madness for the Bengaluru FC has begun! For the moment, they are celebrating the different jerseys they have worn and have asked fans to choose their favour-ites. They have had eight jerseys, one for each year. Which means they are turning 8! Time flies!

FIT BIT

PRASARITA PADOTTANASANA B

(WIDE-LEGGED FORWARD BEND)

In Sanskrit, 'prasarita' means spread out, 'pada' means foot, 'ut' (ot) means intense, 'tan' means to stretch and 'asana' means pose. It is an intermediate level yoga pose that is performed while standing and incudes a forward bend. This asana is the second of the four, namely; A, C and D, which are included in the Ashtanga Primary Series. These variations are done moving from one to the other, while coming back to Utthita Tadasana (Five Pointed Star Pose), and each pose is held for five breaths.

STEPS

- Stand in Utthita Tadasana. Inhale and lengthen the arms at shoulder level. Balance and lengthen the spine upwards for about 2-3 breaths.
- Exhale and place the hands on the hips, pressing the thumb towards the back.
- Inhale and lengthen the spine, and as you exhale fold forward from the hip, flexing it.
- Move the head towards the floor; engage the gluteus maximus, hip flexors, pelvic floor muscles, abdominal muscles, and chest.
- Settle the torso in a forward bend. Pull the navel in as this will also help to move forward and support the lower back.
- Exhale and try to touch the head to the floor. Keeping the shoulders active, draw the chest out, and keep the elbows pointed up (if possible) and arms away.
- Once comfortable, begin the soft inhaling/exhaling and hold the posture for about 2-3 breaths.
- To release, inhale, look up, inhale, lengthen the spine forward and lift torso up and straight.
- Come to Utthita Tadasana. Repeat five times.

BENEFITS

- Stretches your hamstrings.
- Stretches your inner thighs.
- Lengthens spine and neck.
- Bringing your head to the ground calms your mind.
- Releases tension in your spine, shoulders and upper back. Strengthens your quadriceps, hip flexors, core, calf muscles and ankles.
- Shoulders, chest, abdomen, hips, back, legs get a stretch.
- The four variations in a flow improves strength, balance and flexibility.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who have nasal congestion, constant stiffness around the neck and shoulders, or suffering from a migraine or sinusitis, should avoid this.
- Pregnant women can do under the guidance of a yoga teacher.

AMCHI OR NAMMA BANGALORE

ANOTHER week flew by, as my (passionate) family had endless discussions on life, live-wire arguments and travel plans that seemed to incongruously present itself.

Call me a glutton for punishment, but the peace and quiet was driving me up the wall! I was definitely working (or rather trying to) but with little or no interfacing (I love new words. I learned them when I was awake during Zoom calls). I had mastered the art of sleeping with my eyes open! Just to keep myself occupied and not to sound rude, I had accepted every single Zoom invitation my friends and colleagues extended. Right from online poetry and book readings, cooking demonstrations, to political discussions I have been a part of, I have slept!

I understand now why the younger ones want to desperately get back to work into their overcrowded work spaces. The adrenaline rush one goes through circumventing snarling traffic when one doesn't want to be late, the excitement of office gossip, politics and romances, meeting up with colleagues, facing your slimy boss and scores of other such ordinary 'interfacing' stuff is sorely missed!

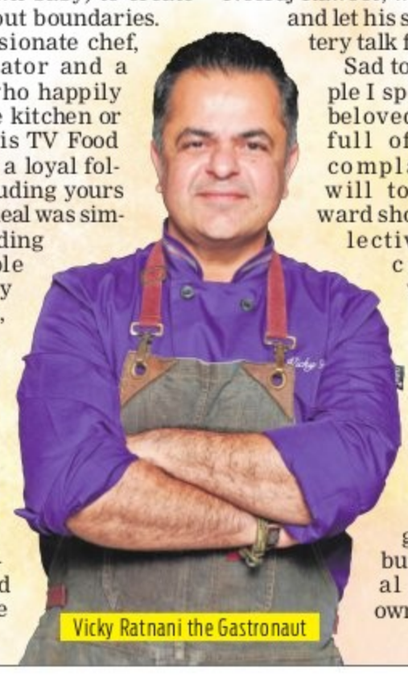
I so missed the cacophony that goes with a full house and work place. Of course I enjoy my 'me' time. My grown children used to visit often enough and those times are stentorian, and rowdy! Last night my sister's kids flew in from London for her landmark birthday and though we were in different cities, thanks to technology we were together via face-time. My sister Rita and I, have managed between ourselves to provide an extended family for our kids that my parents (who were disowned by their own families during partition) craved for us. As we sat back like two matriarchs with our respective broods, I couldn't help but count our blessings. We have overcome... we have survived these horrific times.

July is a month filled with birthdays (or broke days, as I like to call it!). This year we wore our hazmat suits and travelled to Mumbai for my daughter's birthday. God! How I love the vibe of this city! Though it has been a state of full or partial lockdown for a nearly a year, nothing fazes this city. Public transportation, malls, restaurants, hotels, shoots... you name it... It's either closed or open till 4pm. Yet, one finds the average Mumbaiker, working within the guidelines, not circumventing rules and aiding their state government that the Central government has all but abandoned! The commercial capital of India still stands tall, because their citizens will not allow this city to come to its knees. Whether it's a bomb blast, terrorist attack, floods or Cardi-V.

Vikas Kapai & Neeraj Rawoot

We thought we would brunch at a luxury hotel for Alisha's birthday. We went a step further and ordered in from celebrity chef and good friend Vicky Ratnani (the gastronaut), who opened his Speakeasy Kitchen (his lockdown baby) to create meals without boundaries. He is a passionate chef, food innovator and a maverick who happily cooks in the kitchen or outdoors. His TV Food shows have a loyal following including yours truly! The meal was simply outstanding in its simple complexity of flavours, presentation and pricing. Simply blown-away!

We visited the uber luxurious Sofitel Mumbai and had one of the best Asian/Thai lunches this side of the Suez Canal. Again the mood was upbeat, the staff cheerful and willing and the GM Vikas Kapai, optimistic and positive. The only restaurant open was buzzing with patrons and the executive chef (with formidable credentials), Neeraj Rawoot, was charming and let his skill and mastery talk for itself.



Vicky Ratnani the Gastronaut

Sad to say the people I spoke to in my beloved ooru were full of fear and complaints. The will to move forward should be a collective decision cemented with personal responsibility. It's time we brought the 'amchi' or 'namma' into our Bangalore. Not as a language divide but as a personal feeling of ownership.

Feast and festivities

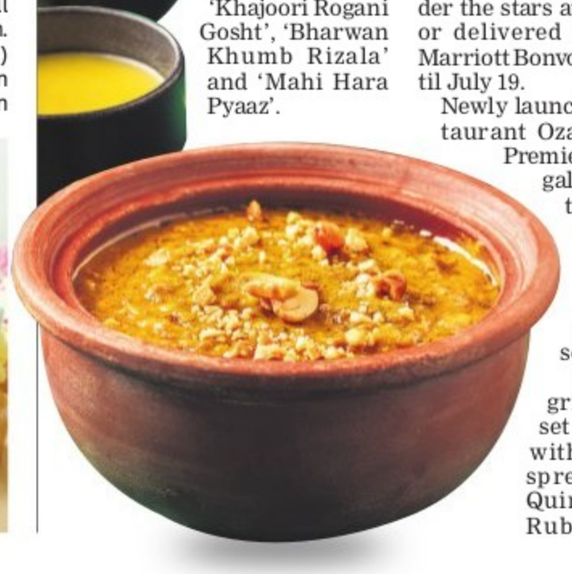
ASLAM GAFOOR
(The author is a Bengaluru-based hospitality professional, food lover and travel enthusiast)

PREPARATIONS for 'Eid al-Adha' celebrations are in full swing, and chefs in the city have put together extravagant menus which you can savour with family and friends over the next few days. Think of those melt-in-the-mouth 'seekh kebabs', slow-cooked meat curries, smoked lentils topped with butter, aromatic 'handi dum' biryanis and creamy 'matka phirnis': you get the drift. Here is our roundup of the Eid specials in town to enjoy at the restaurant or in the comfort of your home.

Four Seasons Hotel Bengaluru is a tranquil oasis that brings together nature and architecture to reflect the city's reputation as a garden city.

On the auspicious occasion of Eid, the hotel makes a perfect setting to relish a festive culinary treat in the alfresco patio of CUR8.

Executive sous-chef Dirham Haque's elaborate spread includes appetisers like galettes, kebabs and tikkas and the mains comprise 'Khajoori Rogani Gosht', 'Bharwan Khumb Rizala' and 'Mahi Hara Pyaaz'.



A sweet finale to the lavish meal is a selection of 'Awadhi Shahi Tukra', 'Baked Mini Gulab Jamun' and 'Kesar Pista Kulfi'. The star attraction is the traditional 'Gosht Dumba Biryani', a whole slow-cooked baby lamb with aromatic basmati rice, caramelised onions, nuts, fragrant mint, and coriander. This bill of fare is available for dine-in and takeaway until July 21 with a la carte dishes starting at ₹550. The 'Gosht Dumba Biryani' is available with a 48-hours' notice at ₹12,000 ++.

Rooftop restaurant Nazaara at the Courtyard Bengaluru Hebbal is a lovely outdoor dining destination where you can savour rich North-West Indian cuisine while soaking in the scenic views of the city skyline and the Nagavara Lake.

For Eid, executive chef Rohan Malwankar has curated a celebratory menu that includes the restaurant's signature preparation, Haleem with Sheermal.

Other specialties on offer are the 'Gosht ki Seekh, Kandhari Paneer Tikka', 'Murgh Sirka Pyaaz, Nalli Nihari' with 'Taaftan' and 'Bakharkhani, Gosht e Dum Biryani', 'Balai Ka Tukda' and 'Sheer Korma'. This delectable feast starting at ₹2,499 for two people can be enjoyed under the stars at the restaurant or delivered home through Marriott Bonvoy on Wheels until July 19.

Newly launched rooftop restaurant Ozaa at Oakwood Premier Prestige Bangalore offers an authentic mix of cuisines handpicked from countries around the Mediterranean seas.

This poolside grill restaurant is set to celebrate Eid with an exclusive spread of Mezze, Quinoa Tabbouleh, Rubyan Meshwi,

'Chicken Shawarma', 'Lamb Arayes' in traditional Emirati spices, the famous 'Adana Kebab' and 'Kanafeh'. The pièce de résistance is executive chef Altamsh Patel's signature Spiced Moroccan Stew which is slow-cooked in a tagine. Available for lunch and dinner, the meal experience here costs ₹2,000 ++ for two people.

Courtyard Bengaluru Outer Ring Road's MoMo Café is showcasing a special Eid menu, available until July 23, for dine-in and home delivery via Marriott Bonvoy on Wheels. The expertly prepared à la carte dishes include 'Mutton Tawa Roast', 'Zaffrani Murgh Tikka', 'Dahi Ke Kebab', 'Gosht Saagwala, Dhungaar Dal', 'Murgh Yakhni Pulao', 'Warqi Paratha' and 'Double ka Meetha'.

Sporting a new open-air vibe with a retractable roof, XOOX Brewmill in Koramangala, has planned an Eid meal for dine-in on July 21.

The combo-meal priced at ₹1,300 AI has a hearty 'Paneer Rogan Tikka', a succulent Tandoori Chicken Chargha with Sheermal Rumali Roti and a flavourful Gosht Biryani with raita and salad.

Let the feast begin!

Cloudy with a chance of cocktails

RAVI SINGH
(The author is the bar manager at Suzy Q by 1522)

THE monsoon season always brings happiness because everyone loves the cool weather and piping hot tea. But you can multiply your satisfaction by curating special blends consisting of whiskey, gin or dark rum and spice it up to get over the nip in the air.

Try a delicious twist to accompany the stormy evenings with these easy-to-make-cocktails. Let your inner bartender emerges to whip up some unique cocktails this monsoon. It's always fun to experiment with your favourite liquor at home.

While classic cocktails are the usual go-to choice, with a few helpful tips and expertise in your craft, you can add a twist to your cocktails by adding some tasteful herbs and spices. We thought involving tea and some spices would entice people and decided to give it a shot. While brandy with hot water is the regular favourite in the monsoon, hot toddy is another favourite and many pubs and bars are putting it on their menu.

Here are some cocktails to try since these hit the spot during a rainy afternoon or evening.

Kashmir Ki Kali

About it: A cocktail prepared by adding spiced black tea to whiskey.

Ingredients

Whiskey - 60 ml

Homemade Kashmiri kahwa tea concoction - 40 ml

Lime juice - 20 ml

Egg white - 1

Sugar syrup - 20 ml

METHOD

Pour all the ingredients into a cocktail shaker, fill it with ice cubes, shake vigorously and serve in a whiskey tumbler glass. Garnish with a smoked star anise.

Dark Desire

About it: This cocktail is crafted by adding homemade fig syrup, mixed with dark rum and topped up with ginger ale over crushed ice.

INGREDIENTS

Dark Rum - 60 ml

Homemade fig syrup - 40 ml

Lime juice - 15 ml

Mint leaves - 15

METHOD

Add mint leaves in a collins glass, gently muddle to release the aroma of fresh mint leaves, add the lime juice and fig syrup and pour the dark rum inside. Fill the glass with crushed ice, pour in ginger ale and serve with a paper straw and wooden stir stick. Garnish with dehydrated lime wheel or dried fig.

Vikrant Rona's producer Manjunath Gowda and director Anup Bhandari share their experience in working with Jacqueline, who is making her debut in Kannada with the film that is making a pan-India appeal

'VIKRANT RONA IS AN AMBITIOUS FILM THAT INTENDS TO TELL AN INDIAN STORY'

A SHARADHAA

EVERY new development with the upcoming Kichcha Sudeep-starrer, Vikrant Rona increases the excitement of the fans. With the addition of Jacqueline Fernandez to this pan-Indian film, the expectations have sky-rocketed. The actor will be seen in an interesting cameo and a situational dance number, which marks her debut in the south Indian film industry.

Manjunath Gowda, Vikrant Rona's producer, talking to CE heaps praise on the Bollywood actor. "Jacqueline is one of the most professional actors I have worked with. She used to report to sets at 9 am and stayed till 9.30 without making any fuss. Sudeep was also appreciative of her efforts in perfecting the dialogue delivery and performance."

Art director Shivakumar erected a grand set worth ₹5 crore for the song, and the shoot went on for six days. Choreographed by Johnny Master, the whole sequence featured about 300 dancers in addition to Sudeep and Jacqueline. "This is going to be one of the costliest movies of the Kannada film industry like KGF Chapter 2," says Manjunath. Jacqueline says, "Vikrant Rona is an ambitious film that intends to tell an Indian story that will stand out across the globe. I'm glad to have been signed on for an action-adventure that is being envisaged on such a humongous scale. I'm truly excited and I hope it's the film that revives the spirit of theatres." Sharing the experience of directing Jacqueline, the film's director Anup Bhandari, says, "She did her homework before coming to the sets. We had sent the dialogues beforehand and explained her role over the phone. We sent a language coach. She wanted to be thorough before coming here. Jacqueline even offered to dub for her role in the film. Her effort was special because she doesn't know any south Indian language. She has Sinhalese roots, and she noted the similarities in the scripts of Sinhala and Kannada. It was surprising." Anup's wife Neetha Shetty had designed the costumes of Jacqueline for the film, and the director says that the Kick actor was particular about her role as she wanted to make a good first impression in the south. "Jacqueline wanted it to be unique and special. She was impressed by Neetha's work. In fact, Jacqueline is the only character who wears green in the film," says Anup, who plans to reveal the first look of the actor soon. "Jacqueline was surprised to learn about our editing skills. She was anxious to see a film getting edited on the sets. After every shot, she was curious about our process," the director says. Vikrant Rona is a multilingual action-adventure that will have a 3D release in 14 languages across 55 countries. The film has music by B Ajaneesh Loknath, and William David is handling the camera. The film also stars Nirup Bhandari and Neetha Ashok in the cast.

YASH TO JOIN SETS OF KGF CHAPTER 2 FOR FINAL PATCH WORKS

CE FEATURES

KGF Chapter 2, is currently in the post production stage, and final shooting works are going on in full throttle, as the production house is planning to announce the release date soon. "The monster will only arrive when the hall is filled with gangsters. His new arrival date will be announced soon," Hombale Films tweeted a few days ago.

The film shooting is at its tail end with only a few scenes to be shot

The crew of KGF Chapter 2 has completed a huge portion of the shooting in Hyderabad. Now CE has now learnt that the makers are getting ready to finish the pending patchwork by July third week, which was pushed owing to Covid-19 pandemic. Yash will be back on the sets for the final schedule set to happen in Bengaluru." Directed by Prashanth Neel, KGF Chapter 2, one of the most anticipated films of the year, also stars Sanjay Dutt, Raveena Tandon, Anant Nag, and Prakash Raj, Srinidhi Shetty, Malavika Avinash, and Eswari Rao. The film, with Bhuvan Gowda as the cinematographer and Ravi Basrur as the composer, will be released in Kannada, Telugu, Hindi, Tamil, and Malayalam.

She Said, to release in Nov 2022

CE FEATURES

Carey Mulligan and Zoe Kazan

Weinstein investigation movie, She Said, has a release date. Universal Pictures' dramatic feature retelling of The New York Times' investigation of the Harvey Weinstein sexual harassment scandal which sparked the #MeToo movement, will hit theatres on November 18, 2022.

The film stars Carey Mulligan and Zoe Kazan as New York Times reporters Megan Twohey and Jodi Kantor, who unraveled the sexual harassment and assault allegations levied against Weinstein over the past two decades, and sparked a cultural reckoning. Their efforts resulted in the producer being sentenced to 23 years in prison on charges of sexual assault and third-degree rape.

Surekha Sikri

Veteran actor Surekha Sikri passes away

CE FEATURES

VETERAN actor Surekha Sikri passed away due to a cardiac arrest on Friday. She was 75. Surekha Sikri had suffered a brain stroke in 2020 and was ailing for a while. She had also suffered a paralytic stroke in 2018.

News agency PTI posted a statement from the actor's agent. It read: Three-time national award winning actress, Surekha Sikri has passed away following a cardiac arrest earlier this morning at the age of 75. She had been suffering from complications arising from a second brain stroke. She was surrounded by family and her caregivers. The family asks for privacy at this time. Surekha Sikri made her debut in the 1978 satire, Kissa Kursi Ka. Her career has spanned the worlds of theatre, film and television. She won the National film award thrice, for Tamas (1988), Mammo (1995) and Badhaai Ho (2018). Her other notable film appearances were in Salim Langde Pe Mat Ro, Sarfarosh, Mr. and Mrs. Iyer, Zubeidaa and others.

On television, Sikri was praised for her negative appearance in the soap opera Balika Vadhu. Her last acting role was in Zoya Akhtar's segment in Ghost Stories (2020). She reportedly has a turn in the upcoming short film, Sheer Qorma.

Farhan Akhtar leads a cliched boxing drama

Stock, uninventive writing dooms Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra's film about a boxer in Mumbai

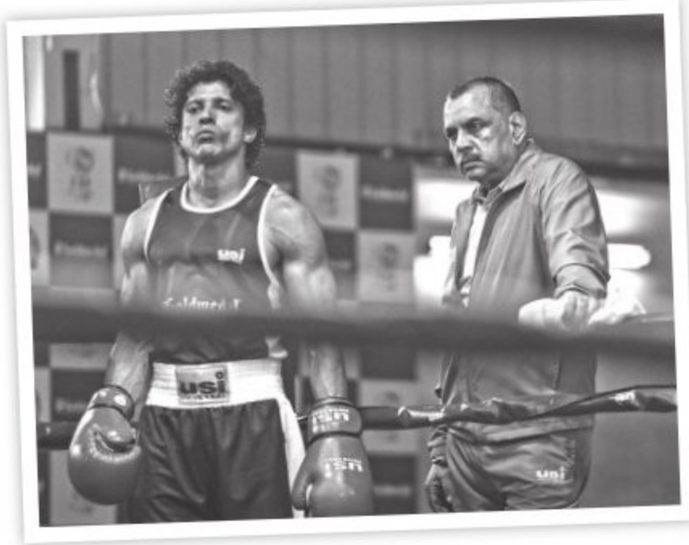
TOOFAAN MOVIE REVIEW

Cast: Farhan Akhtar, Mrunal Thakur, Paresh Rawal, Hussain Dalal, Darshan Kumar, Supriya Pathak

Director: Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra

Streaming on: Amazon Prime Video

SHILAJIT MITRA



FARHAN Akhtar lands 29 punches in two minutes in the opening fight sequence of Toofaan. None of them, however, happen within the ring. As a Mumbai street thug named Aziz Ali, he roughs up a local shopkeeper, then sends a picture of the man's bruised face to his boss. Farhan—loose shirt, maroon trousers, gold watch—looks the part of an angry tough, but turns glum when a nurse details the exact nature of his trade. You can pretty much predict the next scene of him visiting an orphanage, full of luckless street kids like him. Aziz, the film must explain, has a serious case of gangster's guilt.

The primary excitement around Toofaan has been the reunion, after eight years, of Farhan with director Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra. Their 2013 film, Bhaag Milkha Bhaag, was a sports biopic with an epic scope; it jumped from Pakistan to Delhi to Melbourne and Rome. Toofaan, on the other hand, is a determinedly Mumbai film, with Aziz emerging from the ganglands of Dongri to become a serious contender. It's essentially Rocky, with a bit of Southpaw, and half a dozen other boxing movies the makers can't seem to think beyond.

This sense of obviousness further dooms the film. Aziz finds a mentor in Nana Prabhu (Paresh Rawal), the same gruffly dismissive coach who takes in the underdog. Prabhu's daughter, Ananya (Mrunal Thakur), is the same doctor Aziz is falling for. I was expecting the dialogue writing to enliven the characters and subvert the clichés. However, Gully Boy's Vijay Maurya can't work the same magic here, with Ananya given lines like 'Everybody has a choice' and Aziz sounding alternatively cocky and plainspoken. "Aunty my god holy Jesus blood is coming" is the best that Hussain Dalal, as Aziz's best friend, can do, which isn't saying much.

RATING 2/5

Around halfway through the journey, Toofaan finds its pulse. Prabhu's bigotry forces Ananya to leave home for Aziz; an interreligious-couple in Mumbai, they struggle to find a home in the city. The mood shifts from a boxing drama to an emotional love story. Mehra has always excelled with romances, and here he gets ample support from composers Shankar-Ehsaan-Loy. The song 'Ananya', a beautiful acoustic number voiced by Arijit Singh, comes as a delight in the hard-edged narrative. But the romantic idyll doesn't last, as the film skips five years and finds Aziz squirming out of a fixing scandal to stage a comeback.

The boxing itself is uninteresting and lacks propulsion. Cinematographer Jay Oza shoots the in-ring action fluidly, but is let down by the annoying commentary that plays over the fights. While Farhan sweats it out with gusto, there's a stiffness to his movements, far less enjoyable than the wiry physicality he cracked as Milkha Singh. Mostly, though, I blame Anjum Rajabali's script for the heaviness. Rawal's dry, measured performance would have been enjoyable in a different film; here, it's spent in service of broad melodrama.

There is one memorable image near the end. As Aziz fights his big fight, we see members of his old gang in Mumbai. They watch him silently on TV, in clean, colourful clothes, no street brawl or ruckus in sight. Aziz may not change the world, but he's certainly changed his mates.
